

Refuse to Alter Draft Age Limit

House Won't Change Registration Setup; FDR Asks Action on Bills

Washington —(P)—The house refused twice today to change the registration age limit of 21 to 44, inclusive, in the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

On a voice vote, Representative Rees (R-Kans.) lost in an effort to broaden the spread to include men from 21 to 54, inclusive, and Representative Anderson (D-Mo.) was defeated, 161 to 47, in an attempt to make the brackets conform to the senate's figures of 21 to 30, inclusive.

Rees argued that "men are just as fit at 55 as they are at 45," and said that if responsibility of military service was to be shared equally, "you might as well include another 10,000,000 men up to 55."

Roosevelt Appeal

President Roosevelt at his press conference today renewed his plea for speedy congressional action on conscription, the defense tax and appropriation bills, but declined comment on the house vote yesterday to delay actual drafting of men for a 60-day period of volunteer recruiting.

The president said he could not comment on any of the three major bills pending except to say tempus fugit (time flies).

The excess profits tax bill now is pending before the senate finance committee. The $3,250,000,000 emergency defense appropriation bill awaits final senate action before going to the White House.

Urges Quick Action

Mr. Roosevelt added that the quicker the three bills go through, the quicker the government will step up the national defense program.

When the president declined comment on the house vote to delay conscription, a reporter noted that at a prior press conference, when a similar delay amendment was pending in the senate, the president had read from a memorandum. Mr. Roosevelt said that he had given the press at that time the comment of the army chief of staff, General George C. Marshall. (The memorandum had opposed any delay in conscription.)

He referred reporters to the stenographic notes as to what actually was said at the other interview, refusing to become involved in an argument with the newsmen over just what was said.

Rudely jolted by their temporary failure to block a postponement of the draft, house conscription leaders rallied their forces today to stave off more moves for the modification of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military service bill.

60-Day Delay

The unexpected reversal occurred late yesterday when the house voted, 165 to 155, to defer the inauguration of 36 conscription for 60 days while an effort was made to obtain 400,000 recruits for the army by one-year voluntary enlistments.

Despite the setback, those in the conscription ranks insisted the Burke-Wadsworth bill was in no danger of eventual defeat and opponents of the measure did not dispute them. Moreover, indications were that conscription leaders might seek to reverse yesterday's vote before the final roll call.

The occasion for the defeat was an amendment by Representative Fish (R-N.Y.)—the first of the many proposed modifications of the bill to be voted on. It would authorize the president to issue a call as soon as possible for 400,000 volunteers between the ages of 18 and 35. The recruits would be inducted into the army or national guard upon enlistment.

If 400,000 recruits had not been obtained at the end of 60 days, conscription would become operative to raise whatever additional men needed to fill the quota.

Election Factor

Opponents of such postponement frequently told the house that political considerations governed the vote, because if the bill became law immediately, the 60-day period would end right after the November elections.

Fish's amendment, however, would not alter the basic provision of draft legislation requiring the immediate registration of men from 21 to 44, inclusive. Only their sum-

Costa Rica and Ecuador Backing Defense Plans

Roosevelt Says No New Negotiations Started For Additional Bases

Washington —(P)—President Roosevelt said today that Costa Rica and Ecuador were cooperating completely with the United States in plans for defense of the Americas, but he added that no negotiations for acquisition of additional naval and air bases were now under way with any country.

Asked about reports that Costa Rica had offered to this country Cosos island, about 600 miles northwest of the Panama canal in the Pacific for a base, the president replied that all he could say on that was that there was complete cooperation between Costa Rica and the United States in the defense of the Americas.

Another question at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference was whether the Galapagos islands, about 1,000 miles southwest of the canal, were involved in talks with Ecuador. He made the same reply, namely, that Ecuador was working with this country on continental defense.

Canada Seeks Tanks

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized, however, that there were no negotiations on at all to acquire bases other than those granted by Great Britain on eight of its crown colonies from Newfoundland to British Guiana in exchange for 50 over-age destroyers.

Prior to the president's meeting with the press, it was learned that Canada was seeking several hundred obsolete World War tanks and large quantities of military supplies from the United States.

At his press conference, the president took occasion to reply to those who, he said, had claimed that he did not tell the truth about the deal at several press conferences before the exchange actually was announced.

Mr. Roosevelt said that when all the official documents were disclosed.

Dr. E. A. Birge, Former University President, Is Honored at Madison

Madison —(P)—A distinguished assemblage of more than 300 persons paid tribute last night to Dr. Edward A. Birge at a birthday party dinner at the University of Wisconsin campus where he served as president for seven years.

The eminent scientist and scholar, recognized by colleagues as the world's outstanding authority of water studies, responded to their praise with both jocular and serious references to his lifetime's work.

If any monument should be erected for him, he declared, it would please him most to have it set in 60 feet of water on the bed of Lake Mendota, his limnological laboratory here for 65 years.

However, his audience applauded when he whimsically expressed hope there would be no immediate need for a monument.

Dr. Birge's eighty-ninth birthday anniversary is tomorrow.

Broughton Endorses McGovern and Keller

Sheboygan —(P)—Charles E. Broughton, Democratic national committee member, last night endorsed the candidacies of Francis E. McGovern and Gustave J. Keller, who are campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor and attorney general.

He also endorsed the candidacy of John Ringle of Wausau, who is running for the state treasurer nomination.

Discussing the congressional race, Broughton expressed a desire that Jacob Fessler, Sheboygan democrat, supplant Representative Keefe, Republican incumbent who is asking reelection.

Broughton's endorsements were given at a meeting at which McGovern spoke.

Two Witnesses Tell Of Noise Preceding Crash of Airliner

Washington —(P)—Two witnesses at the civil aeronautics board investigation of the Pennsylvania Central airplane crash which killed 25 persons Aug. 31 testified today that they heard the terrific noise of the big transports destruction just after a sharp flash of lightning.

H. O. Vincell, farmer living near Lovettsville, Va., and three miles from the accident scene, estimated that four seconds elapsed between the lightning and the crash. The testimony of Mrs. Dorothy Everhart was similar as to the lightning point.

Waves of Airplanes In Raids on Britain

Germans Renew Attacks Today After England Has Worst Night of Warfare

Berlin —(P)—German sources reported tonight that 50 British planes had been destroyed in today's battles over Britain while German losses were 14 planes.

London —(P)—Coming wave on wave in formations too thick to count, Adolf Hitler's warplanes today launched mightier assaults than ever against Britain after the worst night of the war, and engaged in a series of non-stop battles all over the London area and southeastern England.

The London area had its fourth alarm of the day at 5:29 p. m. after a respite of only a little over four hours.

To meet the onslaught, masses of British fighters took to the skies, setting up at least one formation of 200 bombers and battle planes and fending off bomb attacks on airports in the London area.

Battles were raging in fully half a dozen areas of southeastern England, and the air ministry said at least 34 German planes had been shot down in the fighting before noon.

Nine British aircraft were admitted lost but six of their pilots were reported saved.

The air ministry said that "intensive" air battles resulted in turning back attacks on several aerodromes as the Germans attempted to smash their way up the Thames valley toward London, but that only "slight" damage was done to one factory in the area.

A row of 40 houses also was damaged in a dawn raid in London. Splinters killed a woman in that attack.

Third London Alarm

Later reports indicated 350 bombers and fighters had crossed the coast to make the first of the series of attacks on London and the southeast.

The London area had its third alarm of the day at 12:55 p. m.

British Rescue Nazi Prisoners

Captured Ship Sunk After Being Halted By English U-Boat

London —(P)—The admiralty announced tonight that the British submarine Truant had rescued the crew of a British merchant ship and a party of Norwegian sailors from a German prize crew which had taken charge of the ship.

The rescue was effected off Cap Finisterre, northwestern corner of Spain. The British were the crew of 24 of the 5,207-ton steamer Haxby, who were imprisoned aboard the 5,781-ton Norwegian steamer Tropic Sea, which the Germans were sailing to Germany.

The Haxby had been torpedoed and sunk and the Tropic Sea captured by a German surface raider, name undisclosed, the admiralty said.

After the Truant's rescue all of the Britons and some of the Norwegians were brought to England. The Germans and the other Norwegians were left in the ship's boats.

When the Truant ordered the Tropic Sea to stop the ship was scuttled by the German prize crew "by means of explosive charges which were kept ready and in position," the admiralty announced.

The Germans and their British and Norwegian prisoners took to the boats and the Truant picked up the 24 British seamen, the Norwegian captain of the Tropic Sea and his wife. The others had to be left at sea because the submarine could accommodate no more.

The boats were not overcrowded and the sea was "flat calm," according to the admiralty. R. A. F. seaplanes immediately were sent to rescue those in "the boats and brought one boatload to England.

Italian Fliers In Widespread Raids on Foe

Attack 'Lifeline' in Mediterranean and In Indian Ocean Zope

Rome —(P)—Italian airmen struck back at Britain, the high command announced today, with a raking fire of air raids on her "lifeline" from the central Mediterranean to the Indian ocean.

In apparent retaliation for British bombardments in the Dodecanese islands, the high command reported a dive bombing attack which "virtually destroyed" the fortress of Delo Marz at Malta, four steamers damaged in attacks on convoys in the Mediterranean and Red sea, gasoline depots fired in the first attack of the war on Suez, and a bombing of ships in the harbor at Aden.

Besides these attempts to disrupt British shipping, attacks were carried out in the Sudan and Egypt. At the same time the high command admitted British raiders "still coming from Switzerland" had done "damage of some importance" to private dwellings and railway cars at Turin and San Paolo.

This quickened tempo followed upon yesterday's communique which told of a whole series of heavy naval and air engagements which ranged from the coast of Algeria to the eastern Mediterranean and the Red sea.

Japan to Reject U. S. Statement

Tokio —(P)—The newspaper Kokumin reported today that a meeting of key cabinet ministers had decided to reject official statements of the United States and Great Britain calling Japan's attention to their interests in maintenance of the status quo in French Indo-China.

Kokumin, considered an organ of the dominant army faction, said the decision had been reached by Premier Prince Fumimaro Koyama and the foreign, war and navy ministers.

Domel, the authoritative Japanese news agency, said the four had deliberated on the Indo-China and other foreign issues but did not report any decision.

Some well-informed quarters believed Japan merely would ignore the British-American statements.

New Dictator Forces Ruler To Abdicate

Bucharest —(P)—King Carol II, yielding to demands of Rumania's new military dictatorship and riotous clamor in the streets, abdicated today in favor of his 18-year-old son Mihai and fled into exile aboard the royal yacht.

Reported with him was red-haired Magda Lupescu, his associate more than a decade ago when he relinquished right of succession to the throne for gay Paris exile and let Prince Mihai reign as child monarch under a regency.

The destination of the royal yacht which sailed into the Black sea from Constanta was not known. The king boarded it after secret departure from Bucharest by special train.

Back of him in troubled, dismembered Rumania Carol left his son as the front of an axis-aligned military dictatorship which already had started a wholesale roundup of important political figures in Carol's decade of power.

Princess Helen, divorced wife of the abdicated king, arrived by airplane to be with his son, one of whose first regal acts was said to have been to send for his exiled mother.

She was said to have come from Dresden, Germany, but this was not confirmed.

Government circles reported that Carol in exile would receive an annual "pension" equal to $80,000.

Close associates of Ion Antonescu said there was long debate at the palace during the night over Carol's demand for a financial settlement.

May Lose Holdings

An annual payment was decided on, it was said, but Carol likely will be dispossessed of much of his extensive property holdings in Rumania. He was reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in Europe.

Police and gendarmes made no effort to control the situation, in which gangs of the anti-Semitic Iron Guard, now playing a top hand, toured the city beating Jewish shopkeepers who failed to hang pictures of Mihai in their shops.

Mihai's first act was to sign over full dictatorial powers to General Antonescu, the iron-willed army leader who had assumed supreme power only 24 hours before.

"Boy King" Rules

Carol, whose loves and escapades as crown prince earned him a worldwide reputation as a playboy, thus handed back the throne—this time stripped of its authority—to the boy from whom he had taken it in a coup in 1930. Mihai then had ruled for three years as the world-famed "boy king."

Carol abdicated at dawn in the presence of General Antonescu as mobs of fascist Iron Guardists—supporters of the dictatorship—rioted in the streets, demanding his abdication and threatening even greater disorders should he decline to step down.

The Iron Guardists had demonstrated most of the night, and the streets were much battered under their riotous outbursts. Steel-helmeted soldiers were called out to protect the palace. The capital was an armed camp.

These demonstrations were resumed—but this time in festive spirit—following public announcement of Carol's abdication and Mihai's succession.

Carol issued a proclamation to his people asking them to support Mihai.

"Misfortune has come upon our country," said Carol. "She finds herself facing grave peril. I want to eliminate these perils by turning over to my son, whom I know you love a great deal."

Abdication of Carol A New Hitler Victory

Madam Lupescu Unpopular With People, but
King Too Stubborn to Listen to Warnings

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
King Carol of Rumania has lost his throne through a combination of circumstances, not least of which has been the shadow-rule of his titian-haired sweetheart, Madame Lupescu—but when all is said and done it represents another great victory for Adolf Hitler.

Rumania has entered nazism, and of that there is but one master—the fuhrer. He has gained a new and important disciple for his teachings. He has gained access, hitherto disputed, to the agricultural wealth and oil of the country, thus strengthening his arms against Britain. He has erected a strategic barrier against Russia, and furthered his own politico-economic control of the Balkans. I believe that Carol had the will, and some of the ability, to be a good king. From personal investigation in Rumania it seemed to me that he did in fact serve his country well in many ways. So far as the records go he was an honest servant of his people. In fact, when I was in Rumania in the fall of 1933, the king was in process of trying to clean up his political house—to eliminate graft which was said to have weakened his regime.

Still, despite his good intentions and many excellent qualities he lacked the political acumen and diplomacy to enable him to deal with the strong forces surrounding him. Rumania was one of the earliest to feel the hand of the Nazi fifth column. There were more than a dozen political parties, which more often than not were pulling against each other.

The situation called for an iron man. Carol had the determination, but he was strong-willed to the point of extreme stubbornness, and his determination thus became a weakness. He tried to use, and indeed did use, a club when subtle methods were called for.

Perhaps his greatest fault was that he was unable to turn away from the whispered advice of the fascinating Magda Lupescu—one of the outstanding personalities of our time. Probably the advice of this hypnotic beauty was at times good. I don't know the answer to that. But we can say that through her he made the great mistake of clashing with his military leaders and army.

When Carol in 1930 returned from his exile with Madame Lupescu and at her urging, engineered the coup which gave him the throne, the people received him with an open mind. He was far from popular with many because of his affair with the red-haired Magda, but they were prepared to forgive and forget.

They weren't prepared, however, to accept Madame Lupescu, and when Carol installed her near the royal palace the people began the murmurs which finally swelled into a great volume that should have warned the king. Undoubtedly they did warn him, but he was stubborn and he was under the influence of his friend.

Pro-Nazi elements began to surge forward, and they made a burning issue of the fact that Madame Lupescu is Jewish. The anti-Semitic angle was preached throughout the country, and she was represented as being the real ruler of Rumania—a claim which mayhap wasn't so far from the truth, at that.

Carol fought the pro-Nazi anti-Jewish guard with all his might. There was bloodshed. Popular leaders were arrested, and along with them that staunch friend of the Iron Guard, General Ion Antonescu who now has assumed supreme authority as dictator.

But Carol also had crossed Hitler the wrong way in another respect. His majesty, being pro-British at heart, was clinging as close to the protection of England as he dared. He couldn't go all the way, as London urged, and cast his lot with the allies, because of the danger from Germany. He did, however, adopt the often hazardous course of trying to play both ends against the middle—keep on good terms with both sides.

There could be but one outcome—the downfall of Carol and the institution of a new regime which would be favorable to Germany.

War Situation Today

Carol Abdicates, Dictator Holds Rumanian Reins; London Raided

King Carol II of Rumania abdicated in favor of his 18-year-old son Mihai today and fled into exile as wildly-celebrating crowds swept through the streets of Bucharest and gangs of Iron Guardists roved the city beating Jewish shopkeepers.

The new king, Mihai V—who ruled the turbulent little Balkan kingdom from 1927 to 1930 as the world-famed "boy king"—took the oath of sovereignty in front of a microphone at 7:30 a. m.

His father's abdication came at 6 a. m., climaxing a night of stormy riots, shootings and death as the populace clamored for Carol to surrender the throne and his stern new dictator Premier, Gen. Ion Antonescu, insisted he yield.

The 46-year-old ex-King Carol, toppled from his throne by popular indignation over the cession of great areas of Rumanian territory to Soviet Russia and Hungary, was expected to join Mme. Magda Lupescu, his red-haired friend, in exile.

Amid this swift-moving drama in the Balkans, London's 8,000,000 residents underwent a series of four air-raid alarms—one lasting seven hours and 33 minutes, the longest of the war—and the R. A. F. fought desperately to smash great waves of Nazi Luftwaffe raiders.

Berlin's 4,000,000 were driven into underground shelters for the third successive morning, but authoritative quarters said British squadrons which touched off the alarm were turned back by anti-aircraft defenses before they could penetrate to the capital.

At least a dozen big air battles raged over England during the forenoon as a wave of 200 German bombers, escorted by Messerschmitt fighters, thundered over the south-east coast.

British bombers again attacked the Turin industrial region in northern Italy during the night. Mussolini's high command said, inflicting "damage of some importance" and setting fires.

An Italian communiqué also reported that fascist dive bombers attacked British gasoline depots at the Suez canal and destroyed Port Del Mar at Britain's Mediterranean island base of Malta.

In London, the air ministry reported 34 German planes were shot down over the island kingdom in terrific air clashes this morning.

My opponent Mike Kresky, has urged that Phil La Follette has urged his election. Mr. La Follette has absolutely denied this statement. Kresky is running on both the Progressive and Democrat tickets. Kresky is endorsed with Frank Zeidler, secretary of the Socialist Party, by the Farmer Labor Federation.

Mr. La Follette never joined the Federation and most Progressives have withdrawn from the organization. In Outagamie County the Federation changed its name to the Progressive Party of Outagamie County. Mr. Sam Sigman called the meeting to make the change himself.

Wallace Talks In Small Towns Of Corn States

Nominee Is Using Car
In Midwest Campaign;
Tour an Informal One

Springfield, Ill. —(P)—Henry A. Wallace is stumping the corn belt in informal fashion.

Without fanfare, the Democratic vice presidential nominee is moving around Illinois by automobile, making speeches in the smaller agricultural communities, meeting the local party leaders and chatting intimately with farmers about the corn-hog program.

No special train is needed to accommodate his entourage, no radio hookups carry his words beyond the fringes of the crowds of 1,000 to 4,000 that have turned out to hear him. All his speeches are extemporaneous and everything else about the tour shows a lack of formality.

His Illinois itinerary is taking him 1,100 miles in five days with a dozen speeches sandwiched between overland jumps. When he finishes in Illinois, Wallace plans to make the same kind of tours in Nebraska, Minnesota, Indiana, Iowa and perhaps other states.

Usually the candidate can get all the members of his official party in one sedan. With him are two close friends and farm program supporters, Rep. Marvin Jones of Texas, chairman of the house committee on agriculture, and Clifford V. Gregory, of Des Moines, associate publisher of the journal "Wallace's Farmer," formerly published by the Wallace family.

Others in the party are James Lecron, the candidate's secretary, Wallace's son, Robert, 20; and J. H. Lloyd, Illinois director of agriculture. Accompanying them are a half-dozen newsmen.

Red Cross Completes Large Quota of Refugee Garments

Five large boxes of refugee garments now have been shipped, completing the Sept. 1 quota for the Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross, Mrs. Mabel O. Shannon, executive secretary, announced this morning.

"Volunteer workers responded splendidly," Mrs. Paul Hackbert, production chairman, said, "and it is largely due to their generous efforts that we have been able to complete this quota on schedule."

Yarns were furnished to the local chapter by the national headquarters of the Red Cross, but material was purchased locally. All work was done by volunteer workers, she added.

The contents of the shipment as announced by Mrs. Hackbert included 50 complete layettes, 100 children's sweaters, 50 women's sweaters, 100 children's dresses, 100 women's dresses, 25 operating gowns, 50 convalescent robes, 50 hospital shirts, 9 mufflers and 29 women's circular shawls.

The garments will be shipped from New Jersey to Europe on a Red Cross ship and will be distributed under Red Cross supervision. Most of the garments probably will be distributed in England and France until arrangements can be made with Germany for distribution in other countries, Mrs. Shannon said.

Heil Saved Money for Taxpayers—O'Konsky

Fond du Lac —(P)—Alvan E. O'Konsky, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, told a campaign rally here last night that Wisconsin taxpayers saved at least $31,000,000 by the election of the present Republican state administration.

He said that with increases in state aids the 1939 budget bill was $72,000,000 compared with the last LaFollette budget of $71,000,000, but that the Progressive administration took $8,000,000 from the highway fund and $1,000,000 from the teachers' retirement fund, making actual expenditures $81,000,000.

He said the 1939 budget, therefore, was $9,000,000 less than the sum spent by former Governor La Follette during his last two years in office and that if Progressives would have adopted the budget proposed by department heads, amounting to $95,000,000.

1908 CAR STILL RUNS—This 1908 Reo proved it still is in the running when it was driven to the Post-Crescent building yesterday under its own power but not without some sputtering and backfiring. The car is owned by E. C. Strope, who runs a used car lot at 225 W. College avenue. Almost as big as the car itself, left to right are Wally Engfer, mechanic who put the motor in running condition, and G. E. Forster, 720 W. Third street. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

One-Cylinder Reo, 1908 Model, Has Wheelbase of 67 Inches

Thirty-two years is a long time for one car to stay in running condition but E. C. Strope, who operates a used car lot at 225 W. College avenue, has one.

It's a 1908 Reo, a one-cylinder job with a chain drive that has seen more miles and been in more parades than anyone can remember. Strope bought the machine last February from George B. Skogmo, Milwaukee, who purchased it from the original owner, F. W. Bowron, Summit, in 1934.

The car, compared to today's sleek models, looks like something a circus clown dreamed up for a laugh on the midway but back in 1908 it was the latest thing in transportation.

It has a wheel base of 67 inches, compared to 118 inches for the latest Reo made, and weighs 1,375 pounds, compared to 3,200 pounds for the modern Reo.

Strope says the car has two speeds ahead and reverse instead of three speeds ahead as in modern cars. It makes 15 miles on a gallon of gasoline but it can't violate any speed laws because its top speed is 30 miles per hour.

Wally Engfer, a mechanic, put the car in shape and drove it around the city on Labor day. It has made two successful trips to Neenah in the last week.

Association Reelects All Officers at Fall Organization Session

New London — All officers of the New London Bowling association were reelected for the second successive year at a meeting Wednesday night and tentative plans were outlined for a full quota of leagues to begin scheduled bowling next week.

Sylvester Stern continues as president, F. F. Buelow as secretary-treasurer, and Arthur Gottschalk and W. B. Viel as vice presidents. Efforts will be made this year to make all leagues 100 per cent members of the City Bowling association and the American Bowling Congress. Dues of 50 cents per member will cover the cost of both memberships. President Stern plans to appoint a man in each league to explain the benefits and privileges of membership and enroll as many teams as possible on their opening nights.

Changes in team sponsors are expected in several New London leagues bowling at Pahl's alleys and a left-handed team is being organized by Gordon Meiklejohn as a special feature. The Lutheran Men's league plans to expand from six to eight teams and new leagues are expected from out of town. Hortonville plans to provide four teams of its own with Medina and Dale forming another circuit.

The tentative schedule for the four downstairs alleys, with shifts at 7 to 9 o'clock respectively, is as follows: Monday, Goodfellowship, Lions club, Tuesday, Tavern, Classic; Wednesday, Plywood, Business Men; Thursday, Refreshment, Borden's; Friday, Girls club, Men's club (8 teams). The schedule for the upstairs alleys is still tentative with the Knights of Columbus and out-of-town loops bidding for favored shifts.

Direction of U. S. Defense Campaign Issue

New Deal Ignorance of Industry's Problems Apparent, Writers Say

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Evidence is piling up to demonstrate dramatically that the real issue of the presidential campaign is whether the New Dealers in Washington will ever understand the industrial operations of America sufficiently to permit the United States to build a strongly mechanized army and a powerful air force — or whether a new president with a background of industrial knowledge can do the job better.

For without airplanes to man them, the new Atlantic bases will be useless and without the weapons of mechanized warfare, the draft army might as well be forgotten.

Today the biggest obstacle to the development of our industrial defense program is the attitude of those New Dealers who think that demagoguery can build airplanes or that the manufacturers and plant managers of this country can be stimulated to produce by threats of coercion.

The psychology which prompted the Russell-Owens amendment which is designed to permit seizure of plants is a psychology of politics. It is an attitude that does not know how to get production because if the government is to be guided by arbitrary-minded officials there will be no plant managers who can do any better under actual government control than under the threat of seizure.

No New Problem
This is not a new problem. Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board in the last war and who should really be guiding America's defense program today, had this to say in his testimony in 1932 before the war policies commission.

"The draft everything" proponents seem to think that confiscation of productive facilities promises a more effective use of them in the interests of government and for the purposes of war. During the World war, government had power to commandeer factories and to operate them under bureaucratic direction. I do not recall a single important industrial enterprise that was thus taken over. This does not mean that the use of the power was never advocated. On the contrary, it was seriously urged in respect of a great industrial plant which was thought by some not to be giving full cooperation to its government.

The proposal split on the rock of this argument:
"Who will run it? Do you know another manufacturer fit to take over its administration? Would you replace a proved expert manager by a problematical mediocrity? After you had taken it over and installed your government employee as manager."

Gets Teaching Post In Wittenberg School

Ewald Tilly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tilly, 1531 S. Oneida street, has accepted a position teaching instrumental music and social sciences at the high school in Wittenberg, Marshall, Hulbert, secretary to the dean of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, has announced. Tilly was graduated from the conservatory in 1939 and has been doing graduate work and giving private lessons.

Two more 1940 graduates of the conservatory have accepted teaching positions, Hulbert said. Miss Audrey Becker, Donna, Tex., is teaching music in the Edcouch-Elis school system in Texas, and Miss Ruth Schroeder, Manitowish, is supervisor of grade school music at Riverton, Ill.

ger, what greater control would you have than now? Now you can choke it to death, deprive it of transportation, fuel and power, divert its business, strengthen its rivals. Could any disciplinary means be more effective? If you take it over, you can only give orders to an employee backed by threat of dismissal and with far less effect than you can give them now. Let the management run the plant and you run the management."

"Nobody with any familiarity with industry could seriously urge a wholesale assumption by any federal bureau of the responsibility for management of any or all of the vast concerns of manufacturing establishments upon which we must rely for extraordinary effort in event of war."

"Mere Conduits"
It has been supposed up to now that the president summoned to Washington outstanding business men to manage the defense program. On the surface it has seemed that they had something to do with the attainment of production of airplanes and weapons of warfare. They are mere conduits, however, through which a lot of official papers and documents and contracts flow. They are helpful and efficient personnel within the limits given them by the president.

But Mr. Roosevelt hasn't delegated any authority over the really vital problems of defense policy to the business men. Only yesterday, members of the defense commission were appealing to committees of congress to eliminate the hamstringing provisions of the pending excess profits bill as they relate to amortization. Here is the key to the building of new plants for defense, yet the president who has all the power and influence necessary to get things done in congress and in the departments has not excited himself publicly one bit to put an end to the kind of political chicanery, if not sabotage of the defense program, represented by the pending amendments whose purpose it is to threaten to seize plants. But whose effect is to paralyze industry at a critical time.

Even Secretary Wallace who hitherto has not been lacking in candor has gone on the stump to repeat the fiction about the need for conscripting industry. Such tactics are delaying the defense program. These mistakes are made by the New Dealers not deliberately, but through sheer ignorance of industry's problems. It has been the same for seven years and that's why America has had such a long depression. Maybe an industrially-minded administration can do better.

League Secretary Advises Against Short Term Loans

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Officers of Wisconsin cities and villages, many of whom have begun the practice under the exigencies of recent years, today were advised against short term borrowing by F. N. MacMillan, secretary of the league of Wisconsin Municipalities.

Any municipality which has kept its financial house in order should not have to resort to the expedient of temporary borrowing to keep its budget in balance, according to MacMillan, who recently prepared a paper on the subject for municipal finance officers of the state.

A city which "has adopted an adequate budget system, has not succumbed to the temptation of levying less taxes than are required just before election time, has conservatively and carefully computed estimated revenue, has consistently kept its expenditures within the limits of the available funds, such a municipality is not concerned with the problem of temporary borrowing," he advised.

Many cities have been able to avoid temporary borrowing, he reported, and have in fact succeeded in building up annual surpluses in their treasuries which they have used to maintain reserves for municipal improvements too big to be handled in a single year's normal city budget.

Yet in many other localities policies of the state and federal governments have "passed the buck" to municipal officers, who have found no other recourse than short term borrowing.

"The chief of these is the fact that the federal government and the state government have had little interest in the repercussions on local finances caused by policies adopted by these governments with respect to relief, WPA, social security, and others. Thus we have had sudden shifts in policy in the midst of local budget periods, and local officials, since they have no other unit of government to which they can "pass the buck," have had to hastily borrow money to finance relief, to pay for sponsors contributions to WPA, etc.," he said.

MacMillan also recalled that the league's annual convention will be held in Milwaukee beginning Oct. 9, and asked each municipality to send delegates.

Seals 81 Scales in Month, Adjusts Three

Of 81 scales sealed during August, three were adjusted by Joseph A. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures. Hodgins checked 301 items in 81 visits to business places and found 296 of them correct while five were incorrect. He retested three computing scales and one counter scale and inspected 11 computing scales and eight wagon scales.

29 Veterans Request Relief During Month

Edward E. Lutz, Outagamie county service officer, investigated 29 applications for soldiers and sailors relief during August, according to his monthly report. During the month there were 19 veterans in the veterans' hospital with 3 applications for travel. Lutz made 77 calls and travelled 1,182 miles on duty during the month.

America the Sucker in Deal With Britain, Johnson Says

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C.—No informed person can criticize our getting those island naval and air bases. This column has advocated that for years. The only fair criticism is the inexcusable delay in doing it, the rather obscure description of just what rights and powers we are getting in leased land under British sovereignty and, above all, the manner of making the deal.

Our fortification of those bases will be a great aid to us but an equally great aid for the defense of the British possessions in this hemisphere—especially Canada. There was no justifiable duty for us to add a slice of our own navy. If any price had to be paid, England owes us plenty on the old account of our aid to her in the last world war.

The difference between getting the bases and giving the destroyers is very great. Getting the bases is wholly defensive—and therefore highly popular. Giving the destroyers was a distinct act of offensive involvement in overseas war and therefore unpopular and impossible to put over on its merits. That is the reason why the president intimated that the two proposals would be presented separately—at the very moment he was negotiating them jointly.

Something the whole American people wanted very much was tucked on to something west of the Alleghenies wanted at all and the whole was jimmied through in secrecy, if not in guile. It was done on the basis of one of the sleaziest opinions that ever came from an American attorney general. There may have been shrewd Yankee horse-trading, but the sucker in such shrewdness wasn't England. It was the American people.

The law said: "It shall be unlawful to send out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel, built, armed or equipped as a vessel of war with any intent that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation."

What is forbidden? Sending war-vessels abroad? When there is any intent to deliver them to a belligerent? That seems plain as a pike-staff. But this opinion says that the forbidden intent has nothing to do with destination. It is only the intent with which the vessel was built that counts. Since these vessels were built 20 years ago, there could have been no intent then that they would go into British service. Therefore, it is O. K. to send them. That simply doesn't make sense. If it is correct, the president can "sell" and send the whole American navy into this war so far as any prohibition in this statute is concerned. It was all built with no such intent.

Sees Example Of Typical 'Rooseveltian Cunning' The job has been put over in customary Rooseveltian cunning, cleverness and contempt for any democratic restrictions on his personal powers. Standing by itself, its great good perhaps outweighs its concrete evils. But it does not stand by itself. It is another example of the ruthless push of this president to perpetuate himself, and increase his dictatorial powers to do that job by a constant dramatization of a threat of war. It reveals a constant venturing further and further in the direction of a national war psychology, if not panic. The effect, if not the purpose of this, culminating at election time, must be to silence criticism, to obscure the great issues of the third term, the wreckage of his entire eight years of domestic policy and his terrifying incompetence in preparing reasonable and adequate defense of this country.

There were too many high-pressure selling stunts in this deal to discuss here. One of the latest was the assurance that the British navy will never be sunk, scuttled or surrendered. I hope and believe that is true. But how much is this assurance worth? If Britain falls, the Churchill government will fall. If the lives of the British people are then held hostages to destruction for the surrender of the fleet, what will happen? What happened in France? In this bestial, cruel, tortured, double-crossing world, we must depend for defense on ourselves along with reliance on none and we must immediately get ready to do that.

Who's Who in County Politics

Editor's note—The following is one of a series of articles on the men and women who are directing political activity in Outagamie county. Some of them hold no public office, nor do they seek office, while others are office holders and are candidates this year. These articles are confined to the men and women who have been political leaders first, and candidates and office holders secondly. Their personal reasons for being in politics are given in the articles.

Mrs. John Bonini, route 2, Appleton, is vice chairman of the Outagamie county women's division of the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, DPOW for short, which was founded by Gustave Keller of Appleton.

The mother of five children, she believes women should work in the ranks with men for the political party of their choice. Thinks women should do their part quietly, with little fan-fare and no soap-boxing. Likes the Democratic party, she says, because it encourages and assists women in finding their place as leaders and workers for the party cause.

"Certainly, women are just as interested as men in affairs that will affect their children," she points out. Mrs. Bonini believes further that an activity of this kind refreshes a woman's interests keeps her from "getting in a rut."

Active in Democratic politics in the county for two years, she is a member of the organization committee of the McGovern for Governor club, founded to promote the

More ROOM — from longer, broader bodies

More POWER — from stepped-up FIREBALL engines

More COMFORT — from softer, steadier ride

More VALUE — any way you measure it!

WITH this advertisement, Buick ushers in a brand-new automobile model year.

1940 production is history—recording the greatest manufacturing and selling season our company has ever known.

You may be sure we grimly realized we had to accomplish things in our new cars for 1941 that we could count on to continue our advance.

So we've taken our greatest all-time car and steadily and carefully brought it forward to a perfection of action, ease, goodness beyond anything ever offered under our name.

THE FIREBALL DOES IT!

Modern gasolines have high octane ratings to permit higher compressions without "ping." Note how this piston, which can be used only in valve-in-head engines, rolls the fuel charge into the shape of a flattened ball that centers around the new, smaller, racing-car type spark plug. Fired at its very heart, this more highly compressed fuel lets go with such heart, this more highly compressed fuel lets go with such full-force, "ping-free" wallop that any gasoline of 75 octane rating (now available at standard-fuel prices) may be used in the 115-hp. engine. Any fuel of 80 octane rating serves in the 125- and 165-hp. engines.

"Best Buick Yet"

Every car in all five series of the whole new line deserves unused fresh-minted language.

Stylewise, their suave and dynamic beauty refreshes the jaded eye as would sight of a hydrant in the desert.

They move and function like young wild things. They're all grace and poise and eagerness. They bring to driving and handling a keener pleasure and a new thrill.

Go see these superb new cars at your dealer's and ask especially about the new micropoise-balanced FIREBALL engines—the 1941 furtherance of Buick's Dynaflex design and kingpin of all the features that make Buick the sensation of the new automobile year.

A Separate Air Command

Mr. Willkie's position in respect to a separate and unified air force is in sharp contrast to that of the President who is supported by most of the generals and admirals.

But the President's supporters are largely past their sixtieth birthday. They will stack up well with the French generals who were beaten by a German army under the direction of general officers who were nearly 20 years their juniors.

That matter of age is not a reflection upon the oldsters. It simply sets apart what may be truly called the reactionaries in the army and navy; that is, the men who cling to the past and look sourly and with misgiving upon any innovation.

Admirals learned about destroyers, cruisers and battleships. Generals were trained in conducting the affairs of brigades and imagining how they might conduct the affairs of divisions. Both admirals and generals have refused to budge, declined to concede the extremely important place to the airplane which its accomplishments demand.

Cruisers are indispensable to sea power. Infantry and artillery are indispensable to the advance of armies. But it is time to concede the airplane is equally indispensable to the operations of either armies or navies.

Everyone involved wants America to have the best defenses obtainable. And it must be remembered that the best defense is always a good offense. This prescription calls for many thousands of seasoned pilots. It demands a branch of the service that lives, thrills and dreams about pursuit planes and bombers, and devotes all its inventive genius and activity to improving, supplementing and advancing the air forces.

Mr. Willkie's advocacy of a new cabinet post known as the Secretary of the Air Force of equal standing with the posts of Secretary of War and Navy is a wise and probably a necessary step in order to create and maintain the sort of air force this country must have.

The men who served in the army and particularly those who were cut off from their own divisions and attached to others will realize what it is in the uniformed services to be a sort of stepchild. Certainly it would be fatal for this country to be shunting to one side that branch of the service that appears most important to develop to its fullest.

A Law Maker

A town that cannot afford a good piece of scandal to keep the gossips' tongues wagging is a hick community. And a congress that hasn't a single member cutting up wild didoes is altogether too dull an affair for the national capital.

It has been some time, however, since Michigan sent to congressional halls a man who has flared into so many mixups as Mr. Hook of Ironwood.

While Hook's methods of entertainment are not always the same as those of the lamented Zionhech his stormy career has been just as hectic in some particulars. His disposition to tie into a free-for-all fight and come out with a black eye could hardly have had a sobering effect upon his judgment in voting on national issues but when it was discovered that his father and three of his brothers were receiving government relief the course of his career took another peculiar quirk something like that of wildman Shoemaker who went to congress from Minnesota after trying vainly to find enough rickety minded persons in Wisconsin to vote for him.

Then Hook got into a suit instituted by a candidate for the senate from Michigan alleging that the Ironwood solon had accused him of belonging to the Black Legion, a villainous Detroit institution of assassination.

Hook's next escapade was in placing into the Congressional Record letters purporting to connect the head of the Dies committee with the Silver Shirts and other screw organizations that have no place in America. Hook sort of washed his hands of this affair by apologizing to the House after it was discovered that he had been sadly imposed upon by forged letters.

But lest he be lost to public attention, Hook has just been sued for heavy damages for the rather commonplace offense of larceny of another man's wife. For the sake of the record it may be hoped that a defense of mistaken identity can be sustained.

A Labor Day Debate

The challenge of Mr. Willkie to the President for a public debate was both honorable and courageous.

It was honorable because it asked Mr. Roosevelt to meet him publicly to present the great issues of this campaign in respect to the public debt, the country's industry, labor, agriculture, and defense.

In addition Mr. Willkie asked Mr. Roosevelt to discuss openly and fairly, cleanly and uprightly, the radical change in this nation's course as evidenced by the President's seeking a third term.

The challenge was courageous because the President has a charming voice, an attractive presence, a favorable personality and a winning way.

Mr. Roosevelt declined the challenge on the ground that he was too busy. This is a peculiar reason to put forth by one who has gone everywhere and spoken innumerable times whenever it suited his purpose, both before as well as since the Battle of Britain began. He might easily have designated Labor Day as one of the days for debate. He could thus have saved himself the necessity of making two speeches on that day.

Every time Mr. Roosevelt is caught in a corner he pulls in like a mudturtle. He will not answer, or his friends sic someone like Harold Ickes or Humanitarian Kelly of Chicago into the battle. That is exactly what he did when Al Smith in 1938 tore his public promises all to pieces and showed him as a man whose word was far from reliable.

When you cannot face the music cast your eyes down at the floor and take on a wounded look. When you fear an adversary wave the flag and tell how you are toiling to save it from disgrace.

It is a great game. The only doubt involved in it is how long it will take the public to get wise.

Hitler's Technique

The German Library of Information at New York has issued a pamphlet concerning England's alleged designs upon Norway and charging London with a deliberate armed attack against the Oslo government.

It is, of course, Hitler's privilege to print the documents found in captured territory but it is not his right to assign meanings to them merely to justify his own act of outlawry against Norway. The charge that Britain had largely embarked upon the "dastardly venture" against neutral Norway which was "foiled at the last moment by German action" is nowhere sustained by the documents submitted which are entirely consistent with the intention in London of landing troops in Norway in case Hitler attempted to take over that country. Germany may labor all she likes upon the proposition that she barely, and only by a few hours, forestalled a Norway landing of British forces but if she has any genuine proof of the fact she has carefully withheld it from print.

Actors cannot change their habits. Grease-pots, wigs and false whiskers have become their second nature. Certainly Hitler could have put up as good an argument had he merely said to the world: I trained great bodies of men to the minute in order to take over Norway since that land provides me in the winter time with a constant flow of iron ore and, in addition, with much better points from which to attack certain parts of the British Isles.

Instead of this candor the astute charmer of the people continues to constantly paint himself as a saint with shining halo and the opposition always as old Satan willing to stoop to any depraved action to gain an advantage.

The Years of Methuselah

"All the days of Methuselah were 969 years and he died," as written in the Holy Book, is denied by a Yale research fellow who has estimated the years at 192 instead. It takes great courage to try to figure anything out in the so-far distant past and with information more meager than dwellings atop Mt. Everest, but there are certain possibilities that may be juggled from one position to another in trying to obtain some sort of a conclusion.

There was that 90-year-old former habitant of Vermont who got on the witness stand in New York and blithely swore he was but 20 years of age. When pressed for an explanation that would reconcile his appearance with his statement he admitted, "I lived 70 years in Vermont but I don't count that and I don't believe God will."

It may be that in the days of Methuselah a dispensation was conferred upon humanity in respect to the years granted upon the earth. Perhaps there was some great misfortune that softened the heart of heaven. Possibly a starry-eyed idealist got Methuselah's people into an everlasting Annageddon where one war was no sooner ended than another one was started. Such a state of affairs might not, only account for Methuselah's great age but for the sun standing still.

But it were better to abandon the brutal ways of the past than adopt them even if they brought along the great age of 969 years with them.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY ROUND

THANKS TO THE MERRY ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Jim Farley was in exuberant good humor when he attended his final cabinet meeting last week. But he didn't do all the laughing.

Clad completely in brown, his favorite color, Jim strode into the cabinet chamber beaming and bowing. He had just spent an hour lunching amicably with the president and appeared tickled pink with everyone and everything.

After shaking hands warmly all around, the postmaster general, who has joined the Coca Cola company, sat down—to find on the table directly before him a shiny sign which read:

The biggest and best
PEPSI COLA
5 cents

Note—Jim still has White House generalissimo on tenter-hooks over whether he will make any speeches for the Roosevelt-Wallace slate in the campaign. So far efforts to schedule him have met with exasperating replies. Jim hasn't said no, but neither has he said yes. Closest to a promise was his word to Senator David I. Walsh that he will make a speech for him in Boston and to Senator Jim Mead to put in some campaign licks for him in New York.

WILLKIE & COCA COLA

Farley may not know it but his new bosses seriously considered offering Wendell Willkie a big Coca Cola job last spring.

The GOP standard bearer's entry into the presidential arena shelved the plan, but the Coca Cola rulers weighed the matter carefully.

Their interest in Willkie was aroused by his dynamic aggressiveness in battling the TVA, which made him, in their opinion, just the kind of a scrapper Coca Cola needs. Coca Cola has been facing increasing competition from rivals using the word "cola," and even the Life Saver company, headed by the recently resigned Undersecretary of Commerce Ed Noble, has adopted this name.

To combat these competitors Coca Cola has started a large-scale legal war, and Willkie, the slam-bang anti-TVA fighter, appealed strongly to "Coke" executives. The matter was dropped, however, when he tossed his hat into the presidential ring.

Note—Farley is no lawyer, but he is a super-salesman and has a far-flung personal acquaintance with federal, state and local officials.

RUSSIA WANTED NAVY STEEL

One fact not generally known about the Charleston, W. Va., naval ordnance plant which President Roosevelt visited this week was that its machinery came near being sold to the Soviet government.

Built during the last World war, the Charleston plant was erected to manufacture armor plate. This is a form of steel normally built by only two plants in the United States, and the navy wanted to keep the Charleston plant for emergencies. For without sufficient armor plate, it is impossible to rush the construction of naval vessels.

However, the Massachusetts Salvage company put in a bid for the Charleston plant machinery, and a lot of pressure was put on the Roosevelt administration by various politicians to sell it. The plan was to transport the machinery to Russia where it would help to rebuild the Russian navy. Since American policy always has favored a strong Russian navy as a quieting influence on Japan, the idea was given careful consideration. Also various American steel manufacturers who did not like the idea of the government being in the steel business, tried to push the sale.

However, Lewis Compton, far-sighted assistant secretary of the navy, was opposed. So also was President Roosevelt when the matter was placed before him. So today the Charleston plant, operated under lease to the Illinois-Carnegie company, is turning out rush orders of armor plate, while the National Youth administration also is using the plant to train apprentice machinists.

UVALDE CALLING

Vice President Jack Garner may return to Washington for the windup of congress a few weeks hence.

He is still undecided, and probably won't make up his mind until the adjournment situation become more definite. If he does return, it will be solely to ring down the curtain.

Insider's reason for this is a personal feeling regarding the president.

Roosevelt and Garner still are on cordial personal terms. But since the Chicago convention, where he was a complete outsider, Garner has felt that his attendance at cabinet meetings was embarrassing, both to him and the president.

To be in the capital and not attend cabinet sittings, Garner fears, would give rise to reports that he is at odds with Roosevelt. So to avoid any misunderstandings, Garner has remained at his home in Uvalde.

Note—House Democratic Floor Leader Sam Rayburn, old Garner crony who will manage the southwestern headquarters of the Democratic National committee, has hopes of persuading Garner to make one speech in the campaign. In 1932, he made two speeches and in 1936 only one. So far Garner has given no indication that he will do anything.

UNDER THE DOME

Mrs. Ed Iraz, wife of southern California's liberal congressman, has a better attendance record than many house members. She hasn't missed a session of the chamber in three years. Other faithful galleryites are the wives of Representatives Kinzer and Tibbott of Penn., and Tom Ford of California. . . Representative Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago, Negro member of the house, is the champion dial-twister of congress. He has nine radios, including one in his car and several in his office. . . Average age of congressmen is 51, senators 53 years. . . One house rule that is honored more in the breach than in observance reads, "No member shall disturb another in his speech by whispering, coughing, spitting or hissing, or passing between him and the Speaker."

WILLKIE'S NOMINATOR

When Representative Charles Halleck of Indiana nominated Wendell Willkie at Philadelphia he urged that Willkie's rare talents be needed to steer the ship of state in these perilous times. Now, however, Halleck is not following Willkie's leadership.

In fact neither are any of the other Indiana congressmen—at least when it comes to conscription.

Only Indiana legislator to side with Willkie in favor of conscription is Senator Sherman Minton, ardent Roosevelt supporter and assistant Democratic floor leader.

Note—Two surprise conscription votes in the senate were those of Homer Bone and Lewis Schwellenbach, both of Washington. Schwellenbach, who is leaving the senate for a federal judgeship, voted against the bill, while Bone, a militant isolationist who made a number of hostile speeches during the long debate, voted for the measure. Interesting also was the fact that eight of the eleven Republicans who supported the legislation were easterners. The three exceptions were Gurney of South Dakota, and Holman and McNary of Oregon. In the past the two Oregon senators have always sided with the isolationists.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—History lesson: There has been a great deal of talk of late about the Lincoln-Douglas debates, and of whether they established political precedents.

I have run across some sidelights which seem to me far too interesting to be buried in history books.

The debates were held in 1858, when Stephen A. Douglas, the senatorial incumbent, was running for re-election and Rail-splitter Abe Lincoln, a newcomer in national politics, was endeavoring to unseat him.

Many Were Informal

The debates started, and many of them were continued, on a purely informal basis. Senator Douglas would appear for a scheduled speech. Sometimes when he was well along, gangling Abe would show up lounging around the rim of the crowd, and, either by accident or design, Republicans in the audience would demand to hear from Lincoln after Douglas had completed his address. Sometimes the two did not appear on the platform on the same day.

There is a story that Douglas, driving into a southern Illinois town for a scheduled speech, met Lincoln rushing to the town Douglas had just appeared in to make his rebuttal address.

"The Little Giant" hailed his opponent and said, "Abe, you better come on back and argue with me here. With me along, you'll get an audience."

None In 1860

In 1860, when Lincoln was nominated at Chicago and Douglas at Baltimore (after the first Democratic convention at Charleston had deadlocked and rebellious, fire-eating southerners withdrew to name their own candidate) there were no debates.

As a matter of fact, Lincoln did no active campaigning, remaining in Springfield to answer correspondence and receive delegations. Douglas did campaign. When he started speaking in Maine, it was almost a political scandal, because for 70 years it had been a tradition that presidential candidates should never so far stoop from dignity as to make speeches for office.

By the time Douglas had swung into the South, it is said, he was weary, discouraged and perhaps convinced that Lincoln would win. At any rate, he opened his St. Louis speech with: "I am not here tonight to ask for your votes for the Presidency. . . I am here to make an appeal to you on behalf of the union and the peace of the country." From then on "The Little Giant" pleaded more for the cause of the union than for his candidacy.

Pledged His Support

When Lincoln came to Washington for his inaugural, one of the first to greet him at the Willard hotel was Douglas, his long-time foe, and it is reported that Douglas, gripping Lincoln's hand, said:

"You and I have been for many years politically opposed to each other, but in our devotion and attachment to the Constitution and the union, we have never differed—in this we are one—this must and shall not be destroyed. Our union must be preserved. Partisan feeling must yield to patriotism. I am with you, Mr. President, and God bless you."

When Lincoln later made his inaugural address and stood hesitantly a moment before the cluttered, rickety table, debating what to do with his tall beaver hat, it was Democratic Sen. Stephen A. Douglas who stepped to his side, took the hat and held it throughout the ceremony.

Looking Backward

Pays to Feed Hogs Well

Columbia, Mo.—(7)—The reason a pig enjoys eating is that he likes to be happy and healthy, says J. W. Burch of the Missouri College of Agriculture, who has made a study of the eating habits of swine.

Pigs that are well fed and housed in clean surroundings usually have the vitality necessary to throw off disease that might be contracted by animals on a "maintenance diet" only, says Burch.

The Pretense Is Ended

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—An examination of the multitude of speeches now being made by the five Progressive candidates for governor nor prompts some curiosity upon what there will be left to say by the Progressive nominees after the Sept. 17 primary arrives and the general election campaign begins.

It is evident that the Progressives are shooting their ammunition early. Vying with each other in trying to undermine popular support of the Republican state leadership, Alfonsi, Stafford, Gunderson, Nelson and Loomis have already charged Heil with every crime in the lexicon of state politics, making it unlikely that there will be anything left with even the suggestion of novelty during October and November.

SPIKED

This is the time of the political year when political rumors double in number and decrease in veracity. A typical current story is that which alleges that Paul Alfonsi is on the point of withdrawing from the Progressive race for the gubernatorial nomination and that he will pledge his support to Candidate Harold Stafford.

Such a story is entirely groundless, but that does not hamper its rapid circulation, to the embarrassment of the Alfonsi campaign. It may be said that if Alfonsi harbored any thought of withdrawing, he would have done so earlier when a political bargain could have been patched up which would have brought him a respectable reward in the form of a prominent place on the state ticket. In fact, such profers were made to him months ago, but they were turned down.

JULIUS' LUCK

One of the most remarkable events in state politics during the last six months, but one which has been given singularly little attention by the politicians, is the turn of luck which finds Governor Julius Heil with a financial problem universally considered insoluble a year ago now practically solved.

When the legislature adjourned late in 1939, not one competent student of state government gave Heil a chance of carrying through until 1941 without a special tax-raising session of the legislature. Then the Heil emergency board's knife went into action, but still it was not enough. The deficit seemed too big; Republicans were uniformly discouraged.

But then Tax Commissioner Barlow reported on income tax receipts, and found they were higher than in any previous year. The highway commission with the resumption of spring and summer travel reported the highest gasoline tax receipts on record. Heil advisors who figured the cigarette tax for $6,000,000 found that they were at least a million dollars wrong. Liquor and beer taxes joined in the boom.

The result is that although Heil still looks at a paper deficit when he examines the treasury balance sheet the administration today is completely confident that it will be able to carry through the next legislative session without particular difficulty. And moreover, the present boom in business, as reflected in higher utility earnings and greater industrial employment may be taken as certain signs of increased tax collections next year.

PROSPECT

Although it remains likely that the state government will have to devise new taxation when the legislature gets back under the capitol dome in January, the most significant fact is that the amount of new revenue necessary will probably be negligible compared to what Republican administration heads feared it would be. It represents probably the most unusual stroke of luck to come the way of the Republicans since they were in office.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THAT GIRLISH FIGURE

The glandular tissue composes about one-third of the size of the breast; fibrous supporting tissue and padding or fat, with some muscle, two-thirds.

It is the functions of certain muscles to support the hips, flanks, belly and back, and of other muscles to support the breasts. Substitute supporters which keep these muscles in splints and the muscles undergo atrophy. A woman is always justified, indeed it is her duty, to wear, if necessary, any harness or gadget which will enable her to fool any man into the belief that she has a good form; just as she should make artistic use of rouge and other tricks to beguile the masculine eye. But the young woman who resorts to such tawdry snides before she has to have them to compete with the old ones is foolish. After all the harness makers must please their customers, and their customers demand foundations and the like which will impart a semblance of the contour of the South-Sea island woman who has never spoiled hers with artifices of any kind.

For any woman who still has a spark of what it takes to be a V.I.C. (you want to know) the way to grace, comfort, health, beauty, vigor and style is the study and practice of posture, exercise, diet and self-support. By self-support of course I mean going without artificial supports a la Bali, not necessarily nude.

In certain cases atrophied or retarded development of the breasts associated with deficiency of the internal secretion of the ovaries (which usually manifests itself in menstrual difficulty too) may be corrected by administration of the ovarian hormone (intramuscular injections two or three times weekly by the physician). This hormone is variously called estrogenic hormone, theelin, aminotin, anterior-pituitary-like hormone. In suitable cases such treatment may bring about normal development in the course of six months or more.

Most of the mass or prominence of the breast is fat. The fat in the breast is mainly a thicker cushion of the subcutaneous fat layer which is a sort of blanket (panniculus) under the skin covering the whole body except the soles, palms and one or two other places. This blanket of fat accounts for the fact that a woman requires less covering or clothing for comfort than a man does; the panniculus also gives the roundness and softness to contour to the feminine physique.

In the imposing (in more than one sense) literature of an institution catering to the credulity of the sophomoric portion of the public the prospect is badly assured that just the right kind of pressure, vibration and massage, available of course only to our customers, "breaks up the fat cells," and being what you are, you fathead, it becomes obvious how our treatment reduces humps or bulges hither and yon just where you want 'em reduced.

The physiological truth is that there are no "fat cells." Fat is deposited between or around various functioning cells, not in them. Therefore you would be no better off, rather in worse plight, even if the hocus-pocus passes made by the quack "therapist" actually broke up a mass of cells at every seance.

How Many Lumps?

Has tea without milk and sugar as much food value as tea with milk and sugar? Is tea more stimulating than hot water and sugar, or is it a stimulant at all? (Mrs. H. J.)

Answer—Tea stimulates brain, heart, kidneys. Tea has no food value. Sugar and cream of course have food value. Sugar is not stimulant but it is quickly assimilated and immediately used as fuel to provide energy for the muscles and for the heart muscles in any sudden demand for effort or endurance.

Assessed Value At Kaukauna Is $35,000 Higher

Mercantile Property Increase Offsets Drop In Industrial Figures

Kaukauna—Real estate and personal property assessment for Kaukauna totals $8,858,815 for this year, an increase of $35,802 over last year's figure, according to City Clerk Lester J. Brenzel.

Real estate was assessed at $8,261,460, of which $1,035,810 was in land and $7,225,650 in improvements on land. Residential property formed the bulk of the assessment valuations.

The assessments for the various types of land are: Residential, $4,831,280; mercantile, $2,114,875; manufacturing, $1,399,355; and agricultural $55,950.

These figures represent an increase of slightly over a million dollar increase in the valuation of mercantile property, but this is offset by a decrease of $994,950 in industrial and manufacturing property assessments.

Mill Changes
The sharp decrease in the manufacturing assessment valuation was attributed partly to the assessment being made after the Union Bag and Paper company had moved all its machinery and equipment out of its old mill here and before the Thimany Pulp and Paper company had taken possession of that mill.

The donation of the M. A. Wertheimer home on Wisconsin avenue to St. Paul's convent accounted for a decrease in $40,000 from the residential assessment rolls.

The personal property assessments for this year are: Merchants' stock, $221,800; manufacturers' stock, $236,400; machinery, tools and patterns $31,625; furniture and fixtures $79,350; cattle, $4,335; swine $60; steamboats and launches, $20,000; and other properties $385. They total $597,355 or an increase of $3,663 over last year's assessed valuations.

This year's personal property valuations were about the same as last year except for an $8,000 increase in merchants' stock and a $6,000 decline in the value of tools and machinery.

Kaukauna had a tax rate last year of $27 a thousand.

Public Divided on Whether FDR Should Accept Challenge

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—The attitude of the typical American voter toward Wendell Willkie's offer to debate President Roosevelt is largely dependent on party leanings. Republican voters interviewed this past week in a national poll tend to favor the debate, and Democratic voters to belittle the Willkie challenge.

Taking an average of all voters, the poll results show an almost even division of sentiment, with a slight majority opposed to having the President accept Willkie's debate proposal.

The question put to voters was: "Wendell Willkie proposed that he and President Roosevelt hold a series of debates, both speaking from the same platform. Do you think the President should accept the proposal?"

Yes 49%
No 51%
Approximately one voter in seven (14 per cent) was without an opinion on the issue.

The sharply partisan nature of sentiment on the question is well illustrated in the following vote by parties:

FDR Should Accept 69%
Should Not Accept 31%
Republicans 28%
Democrats 72%

An analysis of the reasons given by voters for their opinion shows quite clearly that those opposed to the debate think the President is too busy, and that such a debate would be "beneath the President's dignity." Those are the two main reasons in order of frequency.

A 55-year old coal dealer in Berwyn, Md., comments: "Roosevelt should keep busy on our country's problems and not be diverted by debates and trips."

Another voter, a woman in Stockton, Calif., reflects the viewpoint of many in the poll when she says:

"A man in such a high office should not have to condescend to barnstorming."

Another California voter, a barber, adds: "The President ought not to fool around with cheap politics like that."

Those voters who on the other hand, think the President should accept Willkie's challenge, advance two main reasons.

First that the people of the country need public issues clarified and that a debate bringing out the differences of opinion would accomplish this.

Second, that a better comparison of the two candidates would be afforded the voter if the debate took place.

A contractor in Mayville, N. Y., reflects the attitude of the majority when he says: "A debate would clear up in my mind the differences between the two candidates, especially on national defense."

A few favor the debate because they think Roosevelt would win. "I'd like to see Roosevelt make Willkie look foolish," says a New York City W. P. A. worker.

Others, however, want the debate as a test of Roosevelt's ingenuity. "I'd like to see if Roosevelt could make a speech without preparation," comments a young woman voter in Youngstown, O.

Consumption of the deal with Britain to exchange 50 such destroyers for naval bases in the Western Hemisphere was announced by President Roosevelt on Tuesday.

The issue of selling destroyers to Britain was put to the vote in an Institute poll shortly after General John J. Pershing's speech last month advocating the step. Preliminary returns reported Aug. 18, showed 82 per cent in favor. Final returns in the poll are:

Even Expert Has Trouble With Hands

BY ELY CULBERTSON
In placing players in three classes—novice, average, and expert—bridge authorities are well aware that they are doing only the loosest sort of classifying. Take the case of "experts." For instance, The least skillful of them will make from 10 to 15 minor errors in 50 hands; the most skillful, only one or two (this does not include errors of judgment, which can be decided only on a double-dummy basis).

In today's hand the East player, a supposed expert, criticized his partner for having permitted the declarer to squeeze him, pointing out that perfect defense would have defeated the slam. A more expert kibitzer rushed to the defense of West with the incontrovertible statement that the squeeze would have worked just as well against the "superdefense" suggested by East.

South's opening bid was, of course, light, and North cannot be blamed for insisting on a slam, his five and one-half honor tricks indicating that it should be an odds-on chance.

West opened the 10 of diamonds. Declarer won with the king and made a rapid survey of his tricks. He could count 11 top tricks. The 12th could be made up in one of several ways: By a successful finesse against the heart queen, by running off the spades without loss, or by increasing the diamond winners to three.

In order to preserve as many of his chances as possible declarer first went about knocking out the diamond ace. He returned the queen. West won and played back the nine spot. Declarer won with the jack and then played four rounds of clubs, discarding the nine of hearts and the seven of diamonds from his own hand and carefully noting that West discarded two hearts. The ace and king of hearts then were played, and on the second West was squeezed. To let go a diamond would merely promote dummy's fourth diamond to winning position; to let go a spade would establish South's suit. He chose the latter and South now ran off four spade tricks.

East criticized West's acceptance of the diamond ace at the second lead, maintaining that a hold-up would have scotched the squeeze. He pointed out that West's ace-nine would have remained over declarer's jack-seven, and that West, by following the declarer's discards on the clubs, could have preserved his stoppers in both diamonds and spades.

This analysis was superficially persuasive, but incorrect. West would have had the same difficulty of discarding safely had he followed East's plan. Declarer could safely discard his remaining two diamonds on the last two clubs, and then, when the ace and king of hearts were cashed, West would have had to blank his diamond ace or unguard the spade suit.

thing that had all happened before my time "in the family." What should I have done, Mrs. Post? I would feel so much better if I had your opinion.

Answer: I think it is not at all necessary for you to write and thank them for an agreement made between your husband and his family before you were married. But it would, I think, be thoughtful under the circumstances to say something about his and your appreciation the next time you see them.

Inviting Boys to a Party
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper, when a girl gives a party, for her to tell her girl friends that each may bring a boy of her choice to the party? In other words, is she wrong if she doesn't send these boys invitations, but just lets them come on her friends' invitations?

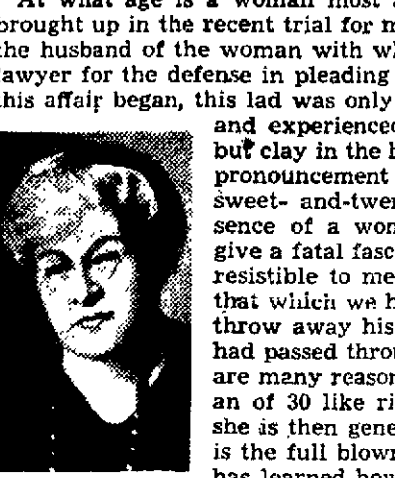

Answer: This is quite all right. It is done all the time by every one, everywhere.

Present for a Hostess
Dear Mrs. Post: I believe you have said that a present to the hostess after a visit is not a requirement of etiquette, only the thank you note is. Wouldn't the rule be altered somewhat if the visit were a long one—that is two and one-half months?

Answer: Oh my goodness! I should think so! The nicest present you could possibly send

Many Women Never Go Beyond the Age of 33

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dorothy Dix

At what age is a woman most attractive to men? This question was brought up in the recent trial for murder of a young man who had killed the husband of the woman with whom he was in love, and in which the lawyer for the defense in pleading for clemency for the boy said: "When this affair began, this lad was only 22, while the woman was much older and experienced. History shows that a man of 22 is but clay in the hands of a woman in her thirties." This pronouncement will come with a shock to all the sweet-and-twenties who think that youth is all the essence of a woman's charm. But that the years can give a fatal fascination to a woman that makes her irresistible to men we need no better illustration than that which we have recently had when we saw a king throw away his crown for the sake of a woman who had passed through her thirties into her forties. There are many reasons why men should fall before a woman of 30 like ripe wheat before the sickle. To begin she is then generally at the height of her beauty. She is the full blown rose, not the immature bud, and she has learned how to dress and how to play up her attractions. Her artifices have become art. More important still, she has developed a technique in handling men. The young girl is a bungling amateur whose methods are raw. She treats men with brutal frankness and tramples ruthlessly over their vanities. She is full of egotism herself, and expects men to devote their time and money to entertaining and amusing her, and to tell her how wonderful she is and that she is more beautiful than any cinema star.

She Knows Men
But the woman in her 30s knows men. Therefore she does not use the crude tactics the girl employs. She does not mount a pedestal and beat upon the cymbals and ballyhoo her own charms and graces.

On the contrary, she turns the spotlight upon the man and sings a song of praise in his honor about how big and strong and clever he is. And while it bores a man to tears to hear a woman talk about herself, he could listen on forever as long as she talks about him.

The woman of 30 knows how to rub a man's fur right way until he purrs under her hand like a tame cat. She possesses the subtlety that can suggest things so insidiously to a man that he thinks it was his own idea to present her with a diamond bracelet and spend money upon her that he cannot afford.

And when she is a philanderer she knows how to camouflage her treachery to her husband by the piteous story of being married to a man who doesn't understand her and who cannot give her the love she craves.

The woman in her 30s is fascinating to all men, but she is particularly lethal to boys, because she is more sophisticated than the girls of their own age, and it flatters them to death to think that they are able to charm a woman of the world.

In addition, she is more amusing and entertaining and easier to get along with than the young girl. Few debutantes have any conversation. They merely exclaim and shriek and giggle. And when they have exhausted their supply of adjectives, and there is nothing to have hysterics over, they are dumb.

Better at Conversation
The woman of 30 knows how to skate skillfully around those places where the conversational ice is thin and a boy gets sunk in the cold waters of silence. That is another reason why any woman in her 30s who wants to bother with them can have a trail of cake-eaters following her.

The real reason why widows can marry all around young girls is because they are so often women in their 30s; women who are at their best physically and mentally; women who have added the wiles of a serpent to the cooling of a dove, and who, in handling men, possess a finesse that it takes knowledge and experience to acquire and that no girl will have until she is also in her 30s.

And that is why so many women who know their birthdays never get over 33. Why, I know women who have been 33 for the last 20 years.

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

You are doubtless familiar with the adage that if you make the best mousetrap in the world, you can hire away to the middle of the forest, but the public will still beat a broad path to your door. See how the experience of Bob and Bill shows that Emerson's observation no longer holds true in streaming America. It now requires quality, plus two other psychological facts, to win outstanding commercial or professional success. Paste this Case Record in your scrapbook.

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE R-165: Bill and Bob are brothers, aged 28 and 30, respectively.

They inherited two small restaurants from their father, who had spent his life in that business. Because the properties were of approximately equal value, the boys flipped coins to see who would get which. Then they decided to continue the restaurants, since they didn't have any other jobs.

Both boys buckled down to work. They were honest and tried to give their patrons good food.

But Bill, being the younger boy, was more of an extrovert than his quiet brother, who didn't mix with people so readily. Bill occasionally visited other eating places in the town.

If he found that one of his rivals was doing a good business, he tried to figure out the reason why. If it sounded logical, then he would try it out.

Consumer Surveys In Business
It didn't cost him a great deal of money for many of his innovations. For example, instead of attiring his waitresses in the same style of white dress, he let them adopt cheery colored frocks.

These were cut according to the same style and pattern, but the different colors added more distinction and variety. They made the place seem more cozy and informal.

His food wasn't any better than that served in his brother's restaurant, but his furnishings and methods gradually began to differ from Bob's.

Many of his patrons were steady customers. He gradually learned their names. By tactful probing, he found out their birthdays. Then, to their surprise, he would have a waitress bring in a small birthday cake with a candle or two blazing upon it.

These cakes were not very large or costly. But they made lasting impressions on his patrons, who doubly appreciated his thoughtfulness as well as his generosity in serving them this cake "on the house."

Naturally, they talked about Bill's restaurant whenever they were among their friends' and conversation veered around to the subject of food.

Good Advertising Psychology
Around holidays, he would ask his patrons to write their names on their checks, and place in a barrel, from which three were chosen at random, and the lucky names won turkeys for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

flower. Again, these didn't cost him a great deal for he bought up the cut flowers on Saturday night which a nearby florist had left over, and which would not keep till Monday.

It is true, he spent a little extra money on his customers, but he charged it off to advertising. He still served the same quality food as his brother Bob.

But Bill's trade flourished until he decided to open a second restaurant, which he bought at a bargain and remodelled. He streamlined the restaurant in respect to furnishings. Because it was near a popular movie theater, he stressed after-theater suppers.

He selected a pretty high school girl who had just graduated and let her act as hostess during the after-theater supper hour. She knew the younger crowd and was a tactful, popular girl, so her personal clientele of friends began dropping into this restaurant.

Let it suffice that Bill now owns a chain of restaurants. Bob still owns but one. Their food is still of good quality. But Bill decided that this modern competitive age would not permit a businessman to rely on quality alone. It now takes quality plus advertising and consumer research to win.

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

This is no rest period for the chrysanthemum gardener. Every care should be given the plants between now and frost. The blooms will die unless the plants are covered with some light, removable contraption on the nights when frost strikes and unless they are uncovered during the hours of sunlight.

A major difficulty at this time is that the plants lose their leaves near the stem bases, sometimes this is accompanied by a general yellowing of foliage which detracts from the beauty of a bouquet when the flowers are cut. The trouble is generally traceable to lack of soil aeration because of soil texture, and this condition is often accompanied with excess water in the soil. The remedy is the immediate addition of sand or humus to the soil and daily hoeing so as to stir the soil and thus aerate it.

If you are in doubt about your diagnosis of the trouble lift a single plant. An examination of its root system generally shows some new growth near the surface of the soil but the deeper roots are dead.

Adding large quantities of food will not remedy the situation. When chrysanthemums are provided with excess food at this season the leaves become intensely dark green. They are produced out of all proportion to the plant's requirements and, in addition, are seldom more than half normal size.

Take an hour now and sit down with a pencil and paper to plan your Christmas buying. Then start shopping early.

It's "not as if he was entirely unknown" — he had a play on Broadway last year.

"Did he?" Adam sounded surprised. "What was the name of it?"

She told him. I had never heard of it. Neither, apparently, had Adam.

"Devoted Servants!"
"Did it have good notices?" How long did it run?"

"It was a wonderful play," she said firmly. "But the critics chose to make fun of it. I suppose because he was a Russian. People in this country think Russians are a crazy. Just as they think Swedes are funny and Italians romantic. It's a form of national conceit that is really just ignorance."

"There's something in what you say," Adam admitted. "So Iva was Russian. You mean he was born in Russia?"

"He was smuggled out of Russia by devoted servants when I was only a small child. His own people, of course, were all shot. They—they were too close to the czar."

"The servants brought him over here?"

"First to England. They passed him off as their own child, who died of privations on the way. But there were people who knew—other refugees, and members of the British aristocracy. They said to it that he was educated at Oxford. Then—then he had to come over here."

"Why?"

"It was safer."

She stopped, and I could hear her draw a long breath. "You mustn't ask me any more about it. That's all I know. There were things he couldn't tell me. I know that he had powerful friends. You—you haven't heard from any of them yet?"

"You mean they would have read of his death in the papers?" He sounded skeptical. "No, I can say that we have. We had a wire from his people this morning, his mother and father in Brooklyn. The address was among his papers and we notified them last night. Early this morning, rather. Soon after we found him. The want the body sent home."

"The devoted servants," Sandra breathed softly. "They would have followed him to the ends of the earth."

It sounded like a bad bad drama. Was it possible that Sandra believed all this stuff? Did she know that everyone who came out of Russia during the revolution was at least a giant?

Mihai King of Rumanians as Carol Retires

ol's ten-year regime—during which he was an active leader of his government—had been, or would be, arrested by the new dictatorship.

As Carol's monarchy thus collapsed completely, General Antonescu was expected to form a cabinet—he is nominally premier—to include the peasant party leader Julius Maniu and several liberal leaders who had refused to collaborate with the general until he had forced Carol's abdication.

The abdication itself was a dramatic event, with Carol, worn and haggard, finally giving in to the demands of the stern-faced Antonescu. The dictator almost immediately took the oath of office under King Mihai.

Summoned back to the throne which he had relinquished as a lad of 8 to his father 10 years ago, Mihai received a promise of fidelity from General Antonescu. As this ceremony was concluded, the premier shook hands with the young king, saying grimly:

"Sire, a prayer to God to help your majesty and me."

Announcement of the abdication came after General Antonescu had attempted to persuade him to turn back his throne to his son.

Reports of deaths and injuries through rioting and the sound of shooting came to the palace as the new dictator argued that for the good of the country Carol had to step down completely.

Mihai Takes Oath Prince Mihai took the oath with a firm voice in front of a microphone at 7:30 a. m. The abdication had been at 6 o'clock a. m.

Rumanian newspaper censorship was lifted completely as an indication of public celebration. Peasants, soldiers and upper class persons mixed freely in the tremendous crowds which flowed through the streets and into the palace grounds.

The abdication climaxed a tumultuous succession of events resulting from the territorial breakup of Rumania.

In June, Russia was ceded northern Bucovina and Bessarabia. Then last week Hungary was given half of the vast Rumanian province of Transylvania.

Bulgaria also has demanded the cession to her of southern Dobruja, but final details remained to be worked out as the crisis over the Transylvania cession developed.

Carol in 1925 had renounced his rights of succession and had gone to live in Paris with Mme. Lupescu. Mihai was proclaimed heir, and took the throne July 20, 1927, upon the death of King Ferdinand, Carol's father.

Coup in 1930

Then in 1930 Carol had a change of heart and returned to stage his coup. Mme. Lupescu came with him and as a leader of the court camarilla which wielded power behind Carol's throne incurred the enmity of elements represented by the army and the Iron Guard.

With the rise of these organizations to new power this week, the "court camarilla" and Mme. Lupescu were thrown out.

Official circles reported a decree would be issued during the day removing from office Ion Morozea, chief of the palace secret police and long known as Rumania's "man of mystery."

Morozea travelled abroad on secret royal missions under the name of Stefanescu. He was reputed to have been the most powerful single figure in Carol's semi-dictatorial regime. He moved in and out of the royal chambers without question, made and broke ministers and shaped vital policies, according to the legend.

Hungarian troops continued to occupy the ceded portion of Transylvania following brief but bloody clashes which marked the first day's march yesterday.

Officials at Cluj said a number had been killed as advancing Hungarian and withdrawing Rumanian troops fought, but the skirmishes were said to have been isolated and the withdrawal and occupation in general orderly.

Berlin—(AP)—The German radio today broadcast from Bucharest what it said was the first proclamation of "King Mihai II." It said:

"1. I confer on General Ion Antonescu absolute and full power for the direction of the Rumanian state."

"2. The king exercises the following royal prerogatives:

"A He is chief of the army

"B He has the right of coining money

"C He confers Rumanian orders

"D He receives and accredits ambassadors and ministers.

"E He sanctions a change in the fundamental laws of the state and appoints a premier invested with full powers

Menasha Firm Will Erect New Chemical House

Charles Gambsky Co. Offers Low Bid on Water Plant Addition

The Charles Gambsky company, Menasha, yesterday was awarded the contract to erect a 4-story chemical building at the Appleton purification plant on a low bid of $54,560.

The building will be the second step in the water commission's $191,000 modernization program which will be extended over a period of several years.

An additional $3,000 will be paid for lime treatment tanks and equipment and the lime to be used later to soften water. A separate contract will be drawn for alternates in the general contract.

W. U. Gallaher, superintendent of the plant, said this morning the lime treatment will not be started for at least two years because of the work necessary to prepare the plant. After the chemical building is completed, another settling basin will be needed for the treatment, he said.

Second low bidder was Herman Bishop, Green Bay, with $54,787, and third was the C. R. Meyer company, Oshkosh, with a bid of $59,428.

Will Re-advertise

The commission rejected all bids on an elevator for the building and will re-advertise for new proposals to be opened Oct. 1. Bids on chemical feeding equipment also were rejected and new bids will be considered Oct. 1.

The Draccon company, Cleveland, received the contract to furnish chemical unloading equipment on a low bid of $8,739. The machine will be used to unload chemicals for railroad cars.

The commission also voted to advertise for bids on pipe and fittings to be used in the new chemical building. The bids will be opened in two weeks.

The new chemical house will be 40 feet square and will be built between the present pumping station and the settling basin. The entrance will be about on the site of the old swimming pool. An office and laboratory addition, 57 feet long and 21 feet wide will be built on the east side of the structure.

Won't Change Draft Age Limit

After winning the vote, Fish estimated that only 200,000 new enlistments would be obtained in the 60-day period, thus making it necessary to call 200,000 conscripts to raise the needed manpower.

Democratic leaders, while declining to disclose their strategy, intimated that they were considering moves to upset the vote. If they attempted this and were again beaten, a knotty problem would confront those congressmen who will be selected to work out a compromise between senate and house bills.

The senate, before passing its version of the conscription bill, rejected 43-10-41, an identical postponement amendment by Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.) In addition, the senate bill has another major difference—it provides the much narrower age limit of from 21 through 30.

Washington (AP)—Representative Scheffer (R-Wis.) proposed today that the Burke-Wadsworth military training bill be amended to require all members of congress under 65 to register for the draft. He lost, 123 to 119.

The teller vote on the amendment showed at first that the proponents, mostly Republicans, had won, but Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee and Democratic leaders rounded up a half-dozen members at the last minutes to swing the vote the other way.

The bill as it stands exempts members of congress from training and service and is silent on registration.

Officials said there were comparatively few casualties resulting from the bomb shelter and hospital hits.

While London was undergoing this non-stop raid, similar alarms and attacks were occurring throughout virtually the rest of England.

Then the raiders returned just as Londoners were going to work. Anti-aircraft boomed and explosions were heard.

Church Job Being Picketed; Charge Open Shop Policy

Stating that Oscar Boldt, contractor, had refused to sign a union agreement, Charles Debenack, building trades council president, said today Boldt's remodeling job at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, W. College avenue, was being picketed.

Wednesday a worker on job forcibly took away a picket's sign. Debenack said. A warrant charging assault and battery was served with the case to be heard this afternoon. Last night about 50 union members gathered at the job just before closing time in protest against Boldt's open shop policy.

Police were present to keep order. Boldt said today he was having an injunction prepared to stop what he called illegal picketing. He had offered to sign an agreement with the council, Boldt said, but more was demanded from him than from others in similar cases.

Select Leaders For "Y" Drive

Membership Campaign Starts Sept. 30; 100 Workers to be Named

Division leaders for the Y. M. C. A.'s annual membership campaign, Sept. 30 to Oct. 6, were named today by H. H. Helble and George E. Johnson, co-chairman for the drive.

Memberships for the men's and boys' departments will be solicited by 4 divisions of 20 men each, with two co-majors leading each group. The co-majors are Louis Waltman, Cecil Furminger; Harold Brown, Kenneth Teel; George Werner, the Rev. G. H. Blum. Each co-major will supervise 10 workers in his division.

Memberships for the women's and girls' departments will be solicited by two women's divisions of 10 workers each, with Margaret Doepker and Genevieve Kronschnabel majors.

The goal of this year's membership campaign is at least 1,000 members and $13,000 in receipts, representing an increase of 45 over memberships obtained last year and of over $800 more than last year's financial receipts.

Although the campaign does not open until Sept. 30 two groups have begun already to make solicitations. They are the advance gift committee, headed by T. E. Orblson, and national forms committee, headed by J. R. Whitman.

Attacks Statement by Kresky on Endorsement Of Phil LaFollette

Walter Melchior, Appleton, Progressive candidate for congress, yesterday attacked a statement attributed to Senator Michael Kresky, Green Bay, who is seeking the Progressive nomination for the same office, that former Governor Phil LaFollette in a talk at Green Bay urged Kresky's election.

Melchior has challenged Kresky to debate the question of endorsements at Little Chute or at the courthouse tonight where Progressive groups are holding meetings or Saturday at Manitowish where both are to speak. Melchior's challenge was made in a telegram sent last night to Kresky at Green Bay.

The Appleton candidate claims LaFollette in a letter to T. E. McGillan, president of the Outagamie County Progressive club states:

"When I spoke in Appleton and was introduced by Walter Melchior, and as you will remember expressed appreciation for his words of introduction and referred to him as 'my old friend' the report was circulated that I had endorsed Walter. Now I learn that having spoken at Green Bay and been introduced by Mike Kresky and having similarly referred to him as 'my old and esteemed friend' I am supposed to have endorsed Mike."

"I know that out of your long experience and knowing my belief in an open primary that you will know that neither story is true. I write you so that in case anyone claims that I endorsed Mike you can be in a position to deny it."

"The major item on Wilkie's schedule today was a conference with 50 midwest farm editors, whom he planned to take afterword on a tour of his five Rush county farms."

During the next week he will work on speeches for his western tour, and may spend Friday, Sept. 13, in a whirlwind tour of Chicago. Illinois leaders want him to speak at the stockyards, in the western part of the city, at a steel mill and at a Negro ball park.

Washington (AP)—President Roosevelt replied that there was no news on that, when asked for comment today on Wendell L. Wilkie's statement that he would favor a "selective service" program for government operation of industry during emergencies.

C. C. Bailey, director of the Appleton boys' department, is program chairman. Accompanying Bailey are Guy Barlow, Jr., James Miller, Roman Schmid, Howard Ruth and Jerry Natrop.

Twelve couples took part in a treasure hunt last night sponsored by Phalanx club of the Y. M. C. A. The hunt began at the "X" with lunch served afterwards at Telulah park.

member of his party, and cannot succeed without such cooperation," Wilkie said in statement, "so is the rank and file of the party entitled to the support and loyalty of the candidate."

The candidates told reporters that his visitors brought him "very enthusiastic reports." Earlier in the day he and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan talked over the administration's trade of 50 over-age United States destroyers for air and naval bases in British possessions.

The two men agreed, Wilkie said, that "the president's action without the consent of congress was an arbitrary use of power."

"If the president should be re-elected and assume he had a mandate, he might trade away the Philippines without the consent of congress," Wilkie added.

"Although I favor giving all the aid we properly can to England, the method chosen was bad."

The major item on Wilkie's schedule today was a conference with 50 midwest farm editors, whom he planned to take afterword on a tour of his five Rush county farms.

During the next week he will work on speeches for his western tour, and may spend Friday, Sept. 13, in a whirlwind tour of Chicago. Illinois leaders want him to speak at the stockyards, in the western part of the city, at a steel mill and at a Negro ball park.

Lucas Prepares For Campaign

Illinois Senator in Charge of Democratic Drive for 13 States

Chicago (AP)—An intensive campaign in 13 states was charted today by Senator Robert W. Lucas of Illinois in his role as director of the midwestern headquarters of the Democratic national committee.

The 14-room headquarters in the Stevens hotel will be opened formally Monday with a luncheon to which state chairmen and national committeemen of the 13 states in the region have been invited.

The Illinois senator said that the campaign would be fully underway within three weeks. He planned to make addresses, and confer with local, county and state campaign groups in the entire midwest region, which includes Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

He expressed the opinion that Wendell Wilkie's campaign has "bogged down since he made his acceptance speech at Elwood."

"If he just keeps on talking, the Democrats will be all right," Lucas added.

ed sometime in the indefinite future, they would show that the criticisms were premature.

Before the destroyer-naval base trade was announced, the president had advised reporters not to speculate on whether destroyers were involved in the negotiations for bases. He said today that when he made those statements they were literally true.

A reporter inquired when the official documents might be published. Smiling, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he believed the state department had ruled they would be published in about 10 days.

Silent on Editorials
The president said that no other equipment was involved in the British trade except the guns and other equipment on the destroyers themselves.

He had no comment on an editorial in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch criticizing the destroyer-base trade or on another in the St. Louis Times-Star praising the action. Mr. Roosevelt said the editorials had been presented to him by a secretary, but that he had not yet read them.

"The editorial in the Post-Dispatch, asserting the president had 'committed an act of war' and had become 'America's first dictator' was inserted in the Congressional Record yesterday by Senator Clark (D-Mo.) Immediately following it in the Record was the Star-Times editorial, inserted at the request of Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), which said Mr. Roosevelt's action was not that of a dictator but of a servant of the people making democracy function" and constituted "an act to keep war away from America, now and forever."

Pegler Offers Some Ideas On the Subject of Divorce

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—A people who persist in honoring a tradition which they have found to be unsound and naive only handicap themselves, and, with this fact in mind, I urge that we dispel, by some positive act or declaration, preferably by congress, the archaic superstition that marriage is a sacred contract. There may have been a time when this was so, but that time obviously is not now, when about one-sixth of these contracts are revoked—and in some families the rate of repudiation runs as high as 60 per cent—all with the consent of the laws and popular opinion of the country.

It is not enough that leading personal ties flout the superstition, although, by their brave example, others are emboldened to challenge an outworn restraint. Deep in the character of the people there still exists a formless fear that a simple remedy for unpleasant conditions may be applied only at the cost of embarrassment and loss of reputation. The law or policy of the nation should not merely tolerate but should endorse this remedy, inasmuch as the law and custom already held it to be permissible.

Permissibility is not enough. Divorce should be advised in view of the fact that laws are not advisory but obligatory. Probably the declaration on the subject should take the form of the Monroe doctrine, which is not a law but certainly is a respected policy of the nation. As matters stand, the people are given to understand that they may avail themselves of this legal right but that if they do they may be thought the less of. Such inhibitions cause nervousness.

The fact should be recognized that in actual practice the marriage contract is the least sacred of all the agreements that people live by except, perhaps, contracts or treaties between nations. I am not prepared to say that even international treaties are less durable, on the average, because, while certain shocking and notorious violations have been to the fore of late, countless other treaties, great and small, carry on. Moreover, these treaties all contain provisions for their own termination at the pleasure of either party, so the comparison is not good, and nations, whatever our opinions of them, seem, on the average, more loyal to their undertakings than men and women who marry.

As to the religious complication, I am too prudent to speak at all, preferring to deal only with the facts, practice and the law. In practice we are much more insistent on the observance of business contracts, and if the repudiation rate in business runs as high as 16 per cent business would be demoralized.

In Matters of Trade Its Quite Different
The law takes a very serious view of contract violation in matters of trade, and the courts will protect the victim of repudiation, no matter what inconvenience, loss or unhappiness, the offender may plead in justification. The fact that the offended party called him a damn fool, read a newspaper while he was relating the gossip of the day or criticized his relatives or friends is not a good defense for a man who has contracted to deliver 2,000 gross of something at a certain price and has tried to jump the price or just failed to make good.

The defaulter will be ordered to make the other whole and will be put down in the confidential books as a no-good, whereas the one who

Kozlowski Is Falcon Team Batting Champ

Catcher-Manager Wins Season Title With 15 Hits in 45 Trips

Menasha — Herbert Kozlowski, catcher and manager of the Menasha Falcons baseball team, won the team batting championship with a 333 average in league games. In 11 contests Kozlowski collected 15 hits in 45 times at bat.

The Falcons won six league games and lost five during the season. Their first half record was two and three while in the second half they made a strong bid for round honors. Three league games were cancelled because of rain.

Outside the league, the Falcons won two and lost three. They defeated the state prison team at Waupun and opened their home season with a 7 to 3 victory over Appleton Papermakers of the Class D league. They lost a practice game to Manitowoc and two decisions to Northern league teams, Clintonville and New London.

In league games during the season the Falcons collected 91 hits in 388 attempts for a .234 team average. They were out-hit by their opponents who collected 104 hits in 394 times at bat for a .263 average. However, the Falcons had a narrow margin in runs scored, counting 51 runs to 50 for opponents.

Won 5, Lost 4
Connie Mack Berry, Oshkosh All-Star basketball player and Green Bay Packer griddler, pitched most of the season for the Falcons, won five games and lost four. George Hoffman was signed after Berry reported for football practice. Hoffman won one and lost one although he pitched two excellent games. He allowed four hits in defeating Kaukauna 1 to 0 and allowed five when Oshkosh defeated the Falcons 2 to 1. Both Oshkosh runs were unearned. If the Falcons have Hoffman on their staff again next season, they probably will be one of the strong teams of the league.

Gerhardt Talks On Playgrounds

Reports Attendance Heavy and Describes Growth of Program

Neenah—Outlining the summer playground program in a talk at the noon meeting of the Neenah Rotary club, Armin Gerhardt, supervisor, told the Rotarians that the attendance this summer was good despite rainy weather.

Gerhardt, who also showed motion pictures taken this summer of playground activities, stated that about 28,000 boys and girls used playground facilities during the summer, including 12,000 at Washington park, 10,000 at Doty park and 6,000 at the Green.

The supervisor, who has been in charge of playgrounds for 11 years, reported that registration of children was conducted for the first time this summer, and more than 603 boys and girls registered, including 105 boys and 101 girls at Washington park, 105 boys and 90 girls at the Green and 114 boys and 88 girls at Doty park.

Describing the growth of the playground system during the last 11 years, Gerhardt said it has developed from a 1-cup to a 40-cup program. He explained that when he took over playground work, only one cup was given for activities and now there are 40 awards for the various games.

The cost this summer of maintaining the system was about $2,400, of which the city council contributed $1,500, and the board of education, Neenah chapter of the American Red Cross and two donors donated the rest.

Preceding Gerhardt's talk, S. N. Pickard, a member of the club, talked about the Green Bay Packers' All Star football game at Chicago.

Geography Teacher Makes Extensive Rural Home Survey

Menasha—Robert Finley, Circle street, Appleton, geography instructor at the University of Wisconsin freshman center sponsored by the Menasha vocational school, is the author of an article on rural homes from Wisconsin to the Gulf of Mexico which appeared in the July issue of the American Geographic Review.

Finley studied rural homes along the 1,600 miles stretch of highway between Madison, Wis., and Beaumont, Texas, counting just under 3,500 rural homes. Rural homes were described as those with farm buildings outside of cities and villages.

All except about 9 per cent of the homes fall into 10 different classes which are pictured and described. Only 60 per cent of the homes have ever been painted and most of them were painted white. Log cabins are few in Wisconsin and Illinois but increase farther south until they are almost predominant. The article includes graphs to show the number of homes of each type in each 100 miles of the entire 1,600 mile stretch.

No Place in War for U. S. as Active Belligerent—Clapper

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Commenting bitterly on the destroyer trade with Great Britain, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch says "We all may as well get ready for a full-dress participation in the European war."

A more realistic tip would be to watch the Pacific. Nevertheless, so many people find it impossible to see the line between aiding Britain and going to war for her that a fatalistic assumption is growing that we will be in it. From an increasing number of persons is heard the opinion that if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected he will take us in. If enough people adopt that fatalistic assumption the thing is liable to happen. Thinking may make it so.

This is the time, therefore, when it is important to dissent vigorously and with sound reasons from this desperate fatalism that is sneaking up behind us, whispering to us that it is in the cards for us to go in, that nothing can stop it, that war will make us strong, that it is our destiny.

We have hypnotized ourselves into blunders in the past but it would be the supreme blunder of all to talk ourselves into the European war on the basis of anything now in sight or in prospect.

England is offering surprisingly strong resistance. Informed authorities here now believe she has a real chance of holding out against the present attack. She has been able to resist partly because of airplanes and army equipment which we have supplied. The importance to us of British survival is sufficient to warrant the furnishing of as much equipment as we can safely spare.

Suppose we did enter the war, what then? Supplies now going to England and vital to her survival would have to be held for our own use.

England doesn't want United States fleet. Send our navy over? That would mean stripping the Pacific—the last thing that England wants. Japan was an ally in the last war. Now she is a potential aggressor. One thing England gets out of this leasing of bases to us is that our Atlantic protection becomes much stronger, thus enabling us to maintain greater strength in the Pacific. Fear of American naval strength is all that restrains Japan from complete conquest in the far Pacific.

The last thing England should want would be for us to withdraw from the Pacific in order to join in her war against Germany.

Send over an army? What for? England has some 4,000,000 men, about as many as she needs to defend the island against invasion.

But if England holds out, what then? It means that Britain holds control of the seas and Hitler holds the continent. How will Britain then win? Hitler cannot be crushed by an invasion of the continent so long as his strength holds together. If he cannot invade England from offshore, there is no possibility that England could invade the continent from offshore against the present Hitler army.

The only hope then of anything aside from a long stalemate would be that, defeated in his attempt to invade England, Hitler's prestige might begin to crumble and the peoples in the nine countries he has conquered might begin to stir again, driven as they most certainly will be by extreme hunger and hardship this winter. Through some such internal crumbling process it might be possible to bring Hitler to

Defense Training Program Outlined

Neenah—Plans for courses for a school training program for national defense in cooperation with the United States office of education, authorized by the federal government, were outlined by Carl Christensen, director of the Neenah vocational school, at a meeting of the board of vocational and adult education last night at Neenah High school.

The program will be under the supervision of the state board of vocational and adult education in cooperation with the state WPA Christensen explained.

He said available and qualified WPA workers will be given an opportunity to participate in the training program, the purpose of which is to train workers for essential industries in the defense program.

Courses in auto mechanics, welding, machine shop, pattern making, electricity, sheet metal, drafting, foundry, and tool making are on vital is important to us. But reason also says that the ends we seek would not be fostered by our going into the war in Europe.

The kind of world we like will be more likely achieved by our concentrating everything on becoming the great naval and air power of the world. It is working out that way now—if we don't jump the track by wandering off on some sentimental journey into a war which in reality offers no place for us as an active belligerent.

State Has Record Sweet Corn Crop

With prospects for the largest crop of sweet corn for canning ever produced in the state, Wisconsin this year will be the third largest producer of that crop in the nation, according to a crop reporting service bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus.

Nearly 71,000 tons of sweet corn for canning will be produced in Wisconsin this year, according to estimates of truck and canning crops made in August. Last year about 45,000 tons of canning corn were produced in the state. The crop this year is more than double the 10-year average.

Wisconsin's sweet corn crop has had a good growing season, and the condition of the crop is reported above average. In addition to higher yields per acre, the increase in production is the result of a much larger acreage than harvested last year. With nearly 31,000 acres of sweet corn for canning to be harvested,

Advertising Drive on Dairy Products Opens

Starting this month, the American Dairy association with central offices in Chicago, will open a six-months national advertising campaign to promote the sale of milk, butter, cheese and ice cream, according to County Agent J. F. Magnus. Both radio and newspapers will be used.

Funds being contributed from five states will yield in excess of the $250,000 which is required for the six months effort. The five states include Wisconsin, Washington, Montana, Minnesota, and Iowa. It is indicated that a balance of at least 35 thousand dollars will remain in the treasury, and that it will be swelled materially, and at an early date, as other states begin to contribute. There will be enough on hand to duplicate the campaign when the first phase of it ends, it is reported.

Kasten Herd Is High Producer In Testing Unit

Cows Show Average of 40.9 Pounds of Fat During Last Month

The Fred Kasten herd produced an average of 40.9 pounds of butterfat to lead production during August in the Outagamie County Dairy Herd Improvement association No. 2.

The Edward Volkman herd was second with an average of 31.8, the Edward C. Rahmlow herd third with 31.2, the Irving Arndt herd fourth with 31.1 and the Lawrence Bentle herd fifth with 29.7 pounds.

A cow in the Mrs. Mary Sambs herd was high in individual production with 63 pounds of butterfat. A cow in the Kasten herd was second with 58.8 pounds, third was a cow in the Rahmlow herd with 58.8 pounds and fourth and fifth cows in the Bert Weyenberg herd with 54.6 and 53.9 pounds of butterfat.

Following are the owners and number of cows producing 40 or more pounds of butterfat during the month: Louis Tamm 7, Edward C. Rahmlow 4, Fred Kasten 7, Frank Drinks 4, Tiedt and Tiedt 1, Edward Volkman 8, Arnold Lemke 1, Lawrence Bentle 3, Earl Hughes 1, Bert Weyenberg 5, Paul Ashman 1, R. 12-Passenger Plane Will be at County Airport Over Weekend

Elwyn West and Don Nicholas have returned with their tri-motor Sunson 12-passenger plane from a 6-month tour of northern Wisconsin, upper Michigan and Minnesota and will take up passengers at the Outagamie County airport Saturday and Sunday.

Next week the pair will leave with the plane on a tour of the southern part of the state. The plane is the largest owned in the state at the present time, and this weekend will be the only stop at the county airport this year to take up passengers. Smaller planes at the airport also will take up passengers during the two days.

Tells Parley of State VFW Safety Campaign

Armin Scherle, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and past commander of the Harvey Pierre post, No. 2778, acted as finance chairman at the V.F.W. national encampment which was held in Los Angeles Aug. 25 to 30. While at the encampment Scherle discussed the Wisconsin V. F. W. safety the acreage is about 44 per cent larger than the harvested acreage last year and more than double the 10-year average acreage.

The reports on sweet corn for canning indicates that some of the important corn-producing states will have smaller crops than last year. However, for the nation as a whole the amount of sweet corn for canning is expected to be about 668,000 tons—more corn than was harvested last year but less than the 10-year average.

State to Raise $125,000 for Dairy Program

Wisconsin Joins In National Plan To Boost Products

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—The state of Wisconsin probably will raise $125,000 as its share of the national fund now being subscribed by the dairy industry for a national campaign to advertise milk and dairy products, according to Lee L. Yorkson, Wausau, headquarters man for the Wisconsin Dairy Industries association.

The WDIA, a privately organized group working with the cooperation of the Wisconsin department of agriculture, is now collecting voluntary assessments of one half cent a pound of butterfat on August milk checks of Wisconsin farmers. About 75 per cent of the butterfat production of Wisconsin is represented in the contributions. Yorkson reported, which will be collected at state headquarters by October 15.

The WDIA board of directors will meet next week to allocate some of the collections for the preliminary $250,000 budget of the national organization, which contemplates beginning the promotion program before the beginning of the new year, Yorkson said.

The national program, in which almost all dairy states in the country are participating, will overshadow any previous advertising program ever conducted by the dairy industry.

Wisconsin's contribution alone will be almost double the official state appropriation of dairy advertising funds, $75,000 annually, which is regarded as one of the biggest and most successful programs of its kind in the country.

Agents of the WDIA generally report a willingness on the part of dairy farmers to contribute toward the cost of the program, although a bill for compulsory assessment failed to pass the last legislature because a majority of the legislators felt, and declared, that the farmers would be unwilling to meet a tax for the project.

Yanks, Tigers Two Games from the Top

New Yorkers Cop Pair From Washington

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American league inferno is getting hot enough to explode, and it probably will next week.

Right now, there is a good possibility Cleveland, Detroit and New York will be approximately tied by Tuesday when the world champion Yankees invade the west for two games with the Indians and three with the Tigers. If something doesn't pop in the heat that will be on those games, it only can mean the American league is lined with asbestos.

The valiant Detroit Tigers overwhelmed the Indians again yesterday, 11-3, and the Yankees walloped the Washington Senators in both ends of a doubleheader, 2-1 and 8-1. Furthermore, the Boston Red Sox pounced on the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-7, and created the almost unprecedented situation of the entire first division being bunched inside 41 games three weeks before the season ends.

These are the figures:

Team	W	L	Pct.	Behind
Cleveland	75	54	.581	0
New York	74	55	.566	2
Detroit	73	57	.562	2
Boston	72	60	.545	4

A four-game losing streak hardly can be called a Cleveland collapse, but the Tigers certainly have not the Indians on the run. After trampling Bobby Feller Wednesday, the Detroit sluggers roughed up Lefty Al Smith and Joe Dobson yesterday, scoring nine runs in batches of three in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings. Rudy York and Bruce Campbell each homered with two on.

Bridges on Mound

Tommy Bridges started on the mound for the Tigers and had the good little Indians eating out of his hand for four innings, once fanning three in a row. But the Indians revolted in the fifth, and Al Benton finished for Detroit and earned the victory.

The Yanks had no snap achieving their double win. They got an unearned run off Dutch Leonard in the first game, which rookie pitcher Ernie Bonham singled home. He also singled to help get the other tally and kept seven hits spaced for his fourth straight victory. In the nightcap, Walter Materson checked the champs on four hits for seven innings, but they blasted out three runs in the eighth and another three in the ninth to make the score lopsided.

New York has beaten Washington 13 times in 16 games and has six more remaining with the Senators. There may help keep the champions in office, if they negotiate their western campaign successfully.

The Boston victory was a typical Red Sox maneuver. They scored six runs in the second and let the A's come right back for seven in the third, three on a homer by Bob Johnson.

Eddie Smith tossed four-hit ball last night to lead his Chicago White Sox teammates to a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

It was the closing night game of the season in Chicago—and Smith was credited with both of the Sox' victories in their seven game night schedule.

Joe Kuhel's 22nd homer and a double featured Chicago's six-hit batting attack. Smith allowed but one hit in the last five innings.

Vander Meer Returns

The National league flowed along its placid course as though it never had known any September tribulations. The Cincinnati Reds conquered the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2, to welcome Johnny Vander Meer back into the big time. "Double no-hit" kept nine hits pretty well scattered, walked five and struck out six. Frank McCormick helped him with a two-run homer in the first and singled with the bases loaded in the eighth, when the Reds made four runs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers kept their distance, eight games back, by beating out the Phillies, 8-5, scoring three times in the tenth inning to put the game out of reach after the tail-enders had tied it up with one run in the last of the ninth.

The New York Giants swept a doubleheader from the Boston Bees, 8-7 and 4-1. The Giants rallied four runs in the ninth inning to win the slugfest first game. Hal Schumacher pitched three-hit ball in the nightcap to better the five-hitter hurled by Manny Salvo.

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals were not scheduled.

Champions in Men's, Women's Divisions Defeated First Day

Detroit —(T)— 1940 world's softball tournament, its beginning marked by a double upset which dethroned both the men's and women's defending champions, swung into high gear today with a schedule calling for 65 games to be played before night fall.

State and municipal champions from 42 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and Canada began in earnest the process of elimination which will lead to the crowning of the new world's champions Monday night.

The tournament, moved from Chicago for the first time since its inception in 1933, got under way last night. Two games, featuring the defending champions of each division opposing metropolitan Detroit's title holders, raised the curtain.

In each case, the host city teams upset the champions, and under the one-defeat system of elimination they bowed out the tournament and left it a wide open race. The Alameda, Calif., girls team, champions in the women's division for the last two years, went down before Keller's girls of Detroit, 2-1, and the Covington, Ky., defending men's champions, dropped from the race a short time later under a 5-to-1 defeat at the hands of Detroit Braves, 1937 national champions.

Pairings for today's first-round games include:

Men's division:

- California vs. Indiana, Illinois vs. Denver, Kentucky vs. Milwaukee, Oklahoma vs. Chicago, and Wisconsin vs. Toronto.

Women's division:

- Milwaukee vs. Cleveland, Chicago vs. Nebraska, Arkansas vs. Indiana, Wisconsin vs. Oklahoma, and Missouri vs. Illinois.

Bill McGowan Back At His Umpire Job

Chicago —(T)— There's still a touch of neuritis in his "strike" arm, but Umpire Bill McGowan is in there calling 'em again after missing his first game in 16 years of American league umpiring.

McGowan returned to duty last night for the St. Louis Browns-Chicago White Sox game after being forced out with an attack of neuritis Tuesday. Until then he had served in 2,532 straight games, he said.

However, McGowan still was far short of the mark established by another American league umpire, George Hildebrand, who, McGowan said, retired after never having missed a game in 21 years.

Indians, Without Vitt, Sit Around A Council of War

Detroit —(T)— Most of the Cleveland Indians reportedly held a council of war last night without participation of Manager Oscar Vitt.

Four straight defeats prompted the hotel room session, players said, with all but two or three regulars attending.

The players indicated they have determined upon a revised plan of attack in their remaining games.

As to how they expected to carry out a scheme without cooperation of Vitt, one player said: "If we have to do it we will give the orders ourselves. We're out to do only one thing and that is win the pennant. We think we can do it but not with the kind of ball we've been playing."

Another said: "We've decided we must go for one or two runs at a time and that means we can't overlook any chances to advance base runners."

That's what we talked about—ways and means of getting runs across the plate without leaving so many men on the bases.

"Being the kind of club we are, we're just beating ourselves when we try to play the old army game of slugging."

Conn Favorite In Scrap With Pastor Tonight

Pittsburgh Fighter to Weigh in at 178; Odds Are Swinging His Way

BY SID FEDER

New York —(T)— Billy Conn and Bob Pastor, a couple of fancy Dans of the boxing ring, fight it out over the 15-round route in Madison Square Garden tonight to decide a future opponent for Joe Louis, but when last heard from Joe wasn't worrying too much about it.

The best that can be said about the chances of the Pittsburgh pretty boy or the ex-collegian from Manhattan, if tossed in there with the bomber, is that tonight's fight should be a good match to see.

For, while neither constitutes any immediate threat to the crown resting on Louis' head, they are two of the classiest boxing men among the big fellows since Tommy Loughran turned in his gloves.

The fight, postponed from mid-August because of a light shower and a lighter ticket sale, has caught on with the cash customers the past few days. Promoter Mike Jacobs is confident now he'll have $50,000 and about 15,000 of the faithful in the house when they start swinging at 8 p. m. (C.S.T.)

No one seems to know why, but the betting odds not only have remained in Conn's favor, but actually have gone up a point or two in the past 24 hours.

On the belief that Conn's board of strategy is altogether too wise to have made this match if they thought Billy didn't have the stuff to finish on top, this corner picks the Smoky City lad to take a beating. He is reported in his best condition in a year, although the rosy hopes that he would hit the 180-mark in pounds for his first "big league" start among the heavyweights have been wiped out. He'll probably weigh less than 178, while Pastor will be close to 183.

State Champion to be Crowned Following Menasha Boat Races

Menasha — The Wally Schmidt trophy, annually awarded to the outboard motorboat driver who scores the most points during the Wisconsin Boating association season, will be awarded to the state champion following the outboard races at Jefferson park Sunday.

Wally Schmidt, Milwaukee, a racing enthusiast and donor of the trophy, will make the presentation. Leading competitors for the cup are Joe Michellini, Evanston; George Kuehn, Milwaukee; Bob Vogts, Madison; Lew Cooper, Pontiac, Mich.; and Dick Hansen, Menasha. All of those drivers are expected to compete in the races Sunday.

The course was surveyed Thursday and today to fulfill the official requirements and if the racers have good water Sunday some new records may be established. Bleacher seats are being erected to seat 4,500 people. The pits will be located directly in front of the bleachers and the start and finish of the race will be at the center of the bleachers. The three-buoy turn, around which the spills will occur if there are any, also is located near the bleachers.

The celebration will open Saturday with concerts by the C.Y.O. band at 2:30 in the afternoon and 7:30 in the evening. There will be games and various concession stands both Saturday and Sunday.

Jackie Maypole, one of the racers, will broadcast the regatta to the spectators. He will compete in only one race and then will give spectators descriptions of the races.

An added attraction on the 12 race program will be the two races for runabouts. Trophies will be awarded to the winners of the first

Lefty Johnson Hurls 1-Hit Game; Indians Beat Fond du Lac, 2-1

By The Associated Press

Lawrence (Lefty) Johnson's one-hit twirling gave the La Crosse Blackhawks a 9 to 0 triumph over Wisconsin Rapids in the second game of the Wisconsin State league playoffs last night.

At Fond du Lac, the Sheboygan Indians eked out a 2-1 victory over the Panthers to even the series, despite the two-hit pitching of Don Opperman. Three Fond du Lac errors gave the Indians the game.

Cominsky's scratch infield hit was the only Wisconsin Rapids blow off Johnson. The victory made it two straight for La Crosse.

Oshkosh Cage Team to Open Season Nov. 22

All-Stars Draw Akron Goodyears; Fort Wayne Replaces Indianapolis

Oshkosh—Oshkosh All-Star baseball team will open the 1940-41 season with the Akron Goodyears at Oshkosh, Nov. 22, it has been announced following a National league meeting held recently at Chicago at which schedules were approved and officers elected.

A new entry was received in the league, Fort Wayne, Ind., to succeed the Indianapolis Kautskys, but other members are to continue. The alignment will be the same as last season with the Oshkosh All Stars, Sheboygan Redskins, Chicago Bruins and Hammond Ciesars in the Western division and the Eastern division composed of Fort Wayne, Detroit Eagles, Akron Goodyears and Akron Firestones, champions for the past two years.

The new league member is owned by Gunnar Elliot, wealthy Fort Wayne business man.

Elected Officers
At the league meeting, Leo H. Fisher, assistant sports editor to Ed Cochran of The Chicago Herald American, was elected president of the circuit to succeed Lonnie Darling of Oshkosh, who was instrumental in bringing the league to its present national prominence. Fisher will also serve as commissioner, replacing Hubert Johnson of Detroit.

Ed Ciesar of Whiting, Ind., owner of the Hammond Ciesars, was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Paul Sheeks, coach of the Akron Firestones.

The Oshkosh home schedule has been drawn up to include two games on Tuesdays, one on a Friday evening, 10 on Saturdays which is the usual night for games, and one on Sunday, which may be played in some other Wisconsin city. The Tuesday and Friday dates were planned to give an opportunity to those who cannot attend on Saturdays to see the games. The Sunday date was arranged because Detroit will be here for two games in a row, one in Oshkosh on a Saturday evening and the other in some other community.

Four games are to be played with each team as in other years, two at home and two away. The schedule will end before the first of March so that the playoffs can be staged before the annual Chicago professional tournament.

The Oshkosh All Stars schedule follows:

Nov. 22—Akron Goodyears, here.

Dec. 8—Hammond, there.

Improved Cardinals, Eagles Will Make Pro Loop Tougher

New York, N. Y. — With another banner rookie crop of outstanding college stars and two new head coaches, the National Football league is all set for what promises to be the closest championship campaign in the pro circuit's history.

Green Bay Packers, defending title holder, and Chicago Bears are favored in the West and New York Giants, Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles in the East, according to forecasts made by league coaches.

The head mentors also predict that the Chicago Cardinals, with veteran Jimmy Conzelmann in charge of coaching, and the Philadelphia Eagles rate to be the most-improved teams this season.

Here's how the coaches figure the 1940 season:

Curtly Lambeau, Packers—Competition in both divisions should be even tougher than last season when three teams in the west and two in the east came near deadlocking at the finish.

Steve Owen, Giants—It looks like the Packers or Bears in the West. Philadelphia may be one-two in our division.

George Halas, Bears — Both sections are much stronger and better balanced. We have high hopes for the Bears.

Ray Flaherty, Redskins—Packers and Bears have the edge in their group. The Bears are the dark horse. The Redskins should be as strong as last year, the Giants will be tough because of their line. The Eagles and Dodgers are improved.

Dutch Clark, Cleveland Rams—Toss-up between the Bears and Packers. The Rams should be stronger. Also the Lions and Cardinals. The Eagles may be the surprise team in the East.

Bert Bell, Philadelphia Eagles — Bears and Packers in the West. Giants, Redskins and Dodgers in the East. Do not care to rate the Eagles.

Potsy Clark, Detroit Lions — Bears, Packers and Rams, because of tested material, in that order in the West. Conzelmann, an excellent coach, will end the Cardinals slump. The Lions will be "in there pitching" in every game.

Eastern group is better balanced than any time since the league was split into two divisions. Hesitate to pick a winner. However, the Eagles with Davey O'Brien and more veteran material, could slip in and win the title if any of the other clubs have a letdown.

The birds seek their favorite food, earthworms, in these patches and never even bore nearby in the sandy soil. These places along the river are literally alive with jacksnipe especially on windy days. Usually they are on one side of the river. If the wind changes they will be found on the opposite side of the river.

Some places very similar to the foregoing occur in the pond region on the old plantations of south Georgia. Snipe there confine themselves to narrow a bit of feeding ground between timber and ponds, or the background of high weeds, sedge and briars as they do when in certain parts of their northern sojourning grounds.

No matter where snipe are found locally they are welcomed by sportsmen. They sure add to enjoyment of his fall hunting days. When they are exceedingly plentiful a bird dog is not required. In fact they are just a nuisance, unless they are used only for hunting dead. Then they are very serviceable as a dead snipe is mighty hard to find with the naked eye. If the hunter knocks one down in weeds, flags or cattails the service of a well trained cocker spaniel comes in mighty handy.

Many sportsmen never become experts at snipe shooting, though they are not hard to hit if one studies for a moment their flight. What puzzles the novice is their zig-zag darting from the ground and their gradual rise in flight. This darting does not last for any great distance. Very shortly they straighten out in their progress away from the hunter, but all the time getting higher from the ground. Hold a few inches above the birds and they are not difficult to kill. Side shots are very easy, however fast the birds are traveling. If conditions are favorable for hunting with the wind

Defer Game as Players Strike

Only 2 Show Up for Tilt; Spokesman Says It's Overdue Salaries

Salisbury, Md. —(AP)—It was warm-up or warpath for "Poppa Joe" Cambria's Salisbury Indians today.

The short, robust ex-laundryman from Baltimore who comprises both ends and the middle of the Washington Senators' one-man scouting staff, found himself with a baseball rarity on his hands—a players' strike.

Elwood Hines, Indian catcher and spokesman for the team, said the issue was overdue salaries.

The we - won't - play - if - Poppa - won't - pay situation came to a head suddenly last night, when only two Salisbury players appeared at game-time for the scheduled contest with Centerville. Surprised fans shortly heard the umpire announce postponement of the game because of "threatening weather."

Overhead, the sky was starry and clear.

With but three days of the Class D eastern shore league season left, Salisbury is fourth and virtually certain of a spot in the play-offs.

Provided, of course, the weather clears up.

at your back obviously you will have many side shots, because snipe invariably get up against the wind.

Lumberjacks Earn Place in Playoff

Minneapolis —(AP)—The rankings may change before the four teams that will participate in the annual playoff were a settled issue today.

Wausau filled out the quartet last night by defeating third-place Superior, 6-2, thus clinching at least fourth place. Grand Forks, already certain of first place, showed no signs of letting up by taking a 10-inning battle from second-place Winnipeg, 2-1.

Just playing out the schedule, Fargo-Moorhead took a 4-0 game from Crookston and Eau Claire was awarded a 9-0 forfeit over Duluth at the hands of Umpire Bill Sekers, who charged Duluth with stalling in the eighth inning. Duluth led, 6-0, going into the eighth but Eau Claire put on an eight-run rally.

At Madison, Wis., Hugh Gustafson, now playing first base for Madison of the Three Eye league, won the Skeets Ebert trophy, awarded by baseball writers of the Northern league, as the most valuable player of the league last year, when Gustafson played in that circuit.

Springfield lost its opener with Madison, 5 to 3, but won the second, 4 to 2 behind Stalder's five-hit hurling. Cedar Rapids also divided a

Star-Spangled Banner

The largest flag I have seen in my travels is the Star-Spangled Banner, spread out over the surface of a wall in the National museum, Washington, D. C.

There were large holes in the huge flag, holes which may take our mind back to the battle which gave it fame.

The Star-Spangled Banner had 15 stars and 15 stripes; one of the stars of the original flag is now missing. There were 15 states in the United States at the time the flag was made.

The Star-Spangled Banner is famous not so much because of its size as because of the song which was written about it. The song is the national anthem of the United States.

In 1814 a British fleet was outside Baltimore, and aboard one of the vessels went two Americans, under a flag of truce. One of them was Francis Scott Key, a 34-year-old lawyer of Washington, D. C.

Key had a talk with the admiral, and made a plea for a Maryland doctor who had been made prisoner. The admiral agreed to set the doctor free at a later time, but said his visitors could not go ashore until a military operation was completed.

That night there was an attack on Fort Mchenry in Baltimore harbor. Over that fort waved the Star-Spangled Banner.

The bombardment was heavy (as bombardments went in those days) and the Americans wondered whether the fort would give up.

To their great delight, morning showed that the big American flag, was still waving in the breeze. The attack on the fort had failed. Key wrote a poem, starting, "Oh! say can you see, by the dawn's early light, what so proudly we hail at the twilight's last gleaming?"

Part of the poem was finished before Key left the boat. Soon it was published. After being put to music, it came to be a popular song. It became the official American national anthem only nine years ago, after being so voted by Congress.

Fishermen Get Deer

Eastport, Me.—(P)—A small deer swimming in circles several miles out to sea from this port was rescued by two fishermen, who hauled the tired animal into their boat as they would a load of fish. When the men reached their wharf they borrowed a truck and carted the deer to the woods and set it free.

Babson Finds Things Fair to Middlin' in U. S.

Expects Favorable Forecast for 1940 Will be Borne Out

By Roger W. Babson

Babson Park Mass.—Let me pass on to you a bird's-eye view of the United States. This is based upon the trip from which I have just returned. It was a great trip, 4,000 miles by automobile from Boston to San Francisco, returning by train from Los Angeles. I covered nearly 25 states, addressed 18 chambers of commerce and other big gatherings, gave radio broadcasts, and—most important of all—talked with the publishers of scores of important papers.

Speaking frankly, business is "so-so" about everywhere. Neither hay nor grass. Retail trade is holding up well and manufacturers are hopeful; but peace industries are playing safe while the war industries have only partly got under way. I believe, however, that Dec. 31 will justify my favorable forecast for the second six months and—in fact—my forecast for the entire year 1940.

I was especially interested in visiting the airplane factories. Notwithstanding all the newspaper talk, I understand that the United States and Canada combined are now sending only about 10 planes a day to Great Britain. Perhaps only one or two of these will be bombers. Guns and ammunition are being manufactured in quantities, but the "heavy armaments" are still in the blueprint stage. Very few people realize the many months required in planning and tooling for assembly line production of a ship or tank, or for almost anything else.

Labor Conditions
I have heard of very little labor unrest. It looks as if labor troubles had seen their peak for this year. Apparently neither of the two major political parties wants the support of John L. Lewis. They both look upon him as a possible liability rather than as an asset. Neither labor leaders nor wage workers want to be classed as "fifth columnists." Employers also are being more reasonable. As younger employers take the place of the old "die-hards," a better relation between capital and labor is very noticeable.

It is evident that employers, executives, and foremen are attending to business more this summer than for many years. This has reacted upon the tourist industry. Everywhere were complaints that people are taking shorter vacations this summer. Yet, the managers of both the New York and San Francisco fairs and the national parks say that attendance is greater than they expected and appear much pleased. This means that the masses are taking vacations this year—more people, but less money spent.

Investment Outlook
I will not say that investors have the jitters; but they surely have some disease—perhaps sleeping sickness. Transactions on the New York Stock exchange one day recently dropped to 130,000 shares, the lowest for nearly 25 years. Brokers show how the London Stock exchange—even while being bombed—is steadier and more active than ours. They, however, do not tell you that the London exchange may be pegged by the government—and if the war continues long enough—the British government will have bought a majority of the shares of most of the English corporations.

Of course, the New York Stock exchange figures do not tell the whole story. A vast amount of "over-the-counter" and private sale business is being carried on. Every day the United States and Canadian public are becoming more and more the owners of America's industries. Besides, as a rule, when New York Stock exchange transactions are very low it is a good time to buy securities, commodities, and land. I am returning from my trip bullish on carefully-selected stocks and productive Canadian real estate, whoever is elected in November.

Attitude Toward War
Well, I must tell you the truth about my attitude toward war. In all my addresses, I would at some point insist that the United States should not let England be destroyed. I explained that the British navy would never desert the island, hence, if we should let Hitler overrun England, we would lose the British navy, upon which our safety depends. Hence, for selfish reasons—we should come to the rescue of Great Britain on November 6 at the very latest.

When I made the above statement in New England, the audience applauded before I got it out of my mouth. When I was in Chicago and Kansas City I got some voluntary applause. In San Francisco and Los Angeles, however, I had to ask for applause. They were all for going over and licking Japan. Some groups, whether politicians or military men, I do not know—had told these people that on account of Germany's careful advance preparations and vastly superior air force, land is beyond help. They felt that while airplanes may win the war, character wins wars! The English have vastly superior char-duke? And there was that child-like joke about Bertie Wooster that Gerald had perpetrated last night, and Ivan's outrageously phony British accent. He had never seen Oxford; I thought it unlikely that he had ever seen the British Isles.

There was a short pause, then Adam spoke regretfully. "I had hoped you could help us. You see, it seems such a pointless crime. There's no motive."

"Isn't there?"

"My flesh crawled a little at that flat, emotionless voice. She might as well have come right out and accused Jeff. Did she really believe he had killed Ivan? Could any woman marry a man she believed to be a murderer?"

Adam chose to ignore the implication. "Well, you see," he said smoothly, "hardly anyone here so much as knew him. Colonel Percival says he had never seen the man; Mimi thought she might have met him once at your apartment, but she couldn't be certain; Jeff says he had only the most casual acquaintance with him. Now as a rule a crime like murder presupposes a strong motive. I wonder—you say he had powerful friends. Had he any enemies?"

"All highborn Russians have enemies," she said grandiosely. "But if you mean one of them killed him, that's impossible. They are all abroad—communist agents, spies."

"We have spies and communist agents in this country too, you know," Adam said dryly. "And not all in books, either."

"But not here, on a Middle Western army post." She sounded amused.

"Why not? Maybe you read in the papers about a recent case that involved an enlisted man at Mitchell Field?"

"No. No, I didn't see that."

There was a short pause, during which she seemed to be digesting this information, for when she spoke again she sounded less certain, less in command of the situation.

"I—I can't believe that. You're just trying to find an excuse, aren't you? Aren't you? Oh, I know how it is in the army—protect the personnel at all cost. Especially when it's a civilian who gets killed. All this talk of spies! You don't believe that, do you? Do you?"

But there was no question in my mind that she sounded worried.

Adam was silent under this shrewd counterattack. Perhaps he was remembering the talk we had had before she came in. But he would not ask her what she meant, at whom she was hinting.

And by marrying Jeff she had put herself in a position where she could not come out openly and accuse him. If that was what she wanted to do. And I was becoming increasingly more certain that it was.

"If you are in possession of information incriminating to anyone, regardless of the person, it is your duty to report it," he said stiffly. Her attack had been shrewd, but she had lost ground with Adam by implying that he would evade his duty. As I may have remarked, Adam is a man of principle.

"I've told you all I can," she said, and with that equivocal response put a period to the interview. I heard her rise and take her departure.

I came out of the bedroom holding my fingers apart to let the enamel dry and found Adam, standing in the middle of my sitting room staring at the floor. I asked him for a cigarette and he placed one between my lips, struck a light and held it for me, but all with the same air of abstraction.

"I was going to ask you to have supper with me," he said abruptly. "But I can't now. I've got to see to things. I've decided to take the body East."

"Couldn't someone else do that?"

"Yes, but I want to talk to that pair—those devoted servants."

"Surely you don't believe that tale?"

"It isn't a question of what I believe. It could be true. Sandra, obviously thinks it is. And for some reason or other I threw an awful scare into her when I said that of spies. I want to find out why."

"Yes, but I want to talk to that pair—those devoted servants."

"Surely you don't believe that tale?"

"It isn't a question of what I believe. It could be true. Sandra, obviously thinks it is. And for some reason or other I threw an awful scare into her when I said that of spies. I want to find out why."

I was silent for a moment, thinking bleakly of the days when he would be gone.

Efforts to Beat Smith Give GOP Campaign Funny Twist

By John Wyngaard

Madison—One of the unusual features of the Republican campaign in Wisconsin is the effort of Robert K. Henry of Jefferson to defeat for renomination a man who was one of his political team-mates in the most spectacular experience of Henry's political career, the coalition effort of 1938.

By backing Chester Roberts of Milwaukee, a young Republican leader, Henry is working for the defeat of State Treasurer John M. Smith, who won office on the Republican-Democratic coalition movement headed by Henry two years ago.

Like Henry a country banker, Smith entered politics for the first time two years ago at the solicitation of the coalition movement. Like Henry he pitched in to put the fusion ticket in office, and to realize the objective of removing the La Follette regime from office in the capital.

Henry withdrew from the office of treasurer, which Henry had held for four years. Henry was nominated for governor by the Democrats, but failed to get the Republican nomination. He withdrew as the Democratic candidate with a public statement supporting Julius P. Heil, the G. O. P. nominee.

After the election and inauguration Henry and Smith continued to be friendly. Their collaboration in the administration of the treasurer's office was illustrated, observers believed, when Smith chose John W. Roach to run the beverage tax division. Roach had served in the same job when Henry was treasurer.

Early this year Henry monopolized political attention for weeks by his opposition to Julius Heil for the Republican party's endorsement for governor. At the Green Bay convention the Republican party snubbed Henry by ignoring his candidacy, indirectly gave its blessing to the governor.

Henry's severed ties with Smith also, and brought Roberts hitherto unknown in state politics, into the Republican primary field to oppose Smith for renomination. There has been no explanation, beyond the fact that Roberts was one of Henry's most fervent boosters during the latter's short-lived gubernatorial candidacy last spring.

Attacking Record
Roberts has been most active in attacking Smith's record and policies in office, although there are two other candidates for the Republican nomination for treasurer.

George Greeley of Oshkosh, and Alonzo Wilkinson of Milwaukee, former legislator and collector of internal revenue in Wisconsin.

Roberts' principal target for attack during the campaign thus far has been Smith's failure to support the demand of many municipalities, and especially the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, for a reduction in the premium rate charged for the insurance of municipal cash deposits by the state board of deposits. The state treasurer is a member of the board, together with the governor and other state officials, which guarantees municipal funds over $5,000. The FDIC covers accounts up to that figure.

Smith this week made his first public reply to Roberts' charge that the board is improperly taxing municipalities through the one-half of one per cent rate charged.

The board has only $1,300,000 in assets to insure more than $80,000,000 in deposits, according to Smith, who holds that it would be unwise to reduce the premium rate until a bigger reserve is built up. Moreover, the assessment of the FDIC is almost at the rate as that imposed by the state board, despite the fact that the federal organization is able to recover from closed banks before the state board's claims are heard.

"The time to build safety is before the loss occurs, and not to start raising money to pay the loss after the loss comes to us, at a time when things are tough. The amount to which the state fund should be built is a proper matter for the legislature, and that body will undoubtedly take care of it when the time comes," he concludes.

Wheat Prices Fall Cent on Profit Taking

Chicago —(7)—A desire to accept profits accrued as a result of a 10-cents-a-bushel advance in wheat prices the past three weeks dominated trade today and caused quotations to drop more than a cent.

Reports of increasing intensity of the battle over England also encouraged the profit-taking. Trade advisers from Kansas City indicated purchasing of cash wheat by the government insurance agency had diminished but demand from mills and other consuming interests persisted, which helped to steady the market at the decline.

Receipts were: Wheat 61 cars corn 197, oats 35.

Uruguay to Purchase 3 Destroyers Identical To Those for England

Buenos Aires, Argentina —(7)—Negotiations are nearly completed for Uruguay purchase of three United States destroyers identical to those being delivered to Britain, a well-informed source disclosed today.

This would be one of the first steps of Uruguay's rearmament program. United States Minister Edwin Wilson was said to have conferred at Montevideo with Interior Minister Pedro Marini Rio.

Vote to Restrict Scope Of Excess Profits Tax

Washington —(7)—The senate finance committee was reported reliably today to have voted to restrict the application of the pending excess profits tax to earnings above those defined as "normal."

At the same time it was said to have agreed upon an increase of 3 to 4 per cent in the normal income tax rate to make up for revenue that would be lost by striking from the bill as it passed the house a 4.1 per cent "penalty" tax on corporations using average earnings in a four-year period as a base for computing normal income.

Bad Weather Causes State Fair Deficit

Exposition Goes Into Hole as Rain Cuts Attendance

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Unfavorable weather at the close of the Wisconsin state fair this year transformed what appeared to be a certain profit into a deficit, a final accounting by state fair managers here today disclosed.

Ralph E. Ammon, fair manager and director of the state department of agriculture explained that rain on the final day of the fair held down admissions to only $5,000 in receipts. The corresponding day of the 1939 exposition brought in $35,000.

Since the net deficit this year was $30,000, the rain storm represented a difference between profit and loss in the season's operations, he pointed out.

Actually, however, the operating loss of this year's exposition was only about $10,000 because about $20,000 was invested in new capital equipment including permanent buildings on the grounds.

Funds Limited
Moreover, the state emergency board earlier this year had reduced the appropriations for the fair and its 1939 surplus to the extent of $30,000.

Ammon said that he would ask the state board of agriculture which meets in the capitol next week, to apply to the emergency board to return that sum in order to satisfy all accounts for this year's exhibits.

Ammon said that despite the weather problem the fair this year illustrated the continued interest of

Following are the charges made in the arrests: assault and battery 3, absconding board bill 1, burglary 5, drunkenness 4, drunken driving 2, disorderly conduct 4, embezzlement 1, failure to transfer auto to title 2, larceny 3, operating auto without license 1, operating auto to without driver's license 1, turning in false alarm 1, violating 2-hour parking law 13, violating 90-minute parking law 23, failing to stop for arterial 1, parking more than six inches from curb 2, parking in restricted area 3, riding more than one on a bicycle 2, speeding 11 and vagrancy 1.

the Wisconsin public in adequately presented and managed rural expositions. One of the most successful of the minor features, was the rural art exhibit which was termed by John S. Curry, University of Wisconsin artist-in-residence as the best showing of paintings in the state, despite the fact that premium awards amounted to only about $700 out of the total of almost $90,000 for all classes of exhibits.
